STEAMER, WITH 200 ABOARD, IN DISTRESS

LINER VESTRIS SENDS "S O S" WHEN 100 MILES OFF NORFOLK

Ship Bound for Barbadoes and Buenos Aires.

PICK UP RADIO Vessel Sailed From New York on Saturday.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Bound for the Barbadoes with 200 passengers the liner Vestris is in distress 250 miles south-east of New York today.

"The S. O. S." signals from the vessel were received here by the Radio Corporation of America.

The position of the ship was about 100 miles off Norfolk, Va. The Vestris had sailed from here Saturday, with Barbadoes the first stop on her run to Buenos Aires, Montevideo and Rio de Janeiro.

At the Lampert and Holt offices here, nothing was known of the nature of the Vestris' difficulties.

Passengers Taken To Life Boats.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—With a heavy storm bearing down upon them, the 200 passengers of the Barbadoes-bound liner S. S. Vestris took to the lifeboats shortly before noon today when the commander of the damaged vessel abandoned his attempts to reach the Virginia shore and ordered the passengers off while still more than 100 miles from the coast.

At the same time word was flashed to the sinking ship that a U. S. destroyer had been dispatched from Norfolk, Va., to pick up the passengers.

Hoover's Business Trip.

This Old, Old Earth.

Pankhurst and Shakespeare.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.]

A REALLY active man must be active always. Elected president, the natural and usual thing for Herbert Hoover would be to rest, and talk about himself, until next March.

Hoover is not the usual candidate, and in a week, will start a business-getting tour of South America, traveling by battleship, part way, then crossing the Andes.

HE will bring business and South American good will with him.

All nationalities understand energy and efficiency. Our friends in the South will be glad to meet the new president, and his visit will mean more business for us, and not necessarily less for Europe.

To create business, change luxuries to necessities, and give men money to buy them.

OLD mother earth is like a patient convalescing from a combination of eczema, boils, and general eruptions. Pierce Mount Aetna pouring out the greatest stream of hot lava since 1669, seized two more Sicilian towns Friday, wiped out the railroad to the sea.

WHAT happens now, only here and there, was happening once, in a thousand places, in early days of the earth's cooling and settling process. On your way to California from the East you pass hundreds of black tipped peaks that once were roaring volcanoes, and along the far western tracks you see crumbling masses of rock that were red hot lava streams, 1,600 centuries before Columbus was born.

THIS earth is very old, as we count time, but very young, compared with the planetary existence of which it is. About 1,000 million years ago, and destined to last billions of years longer, is the usual scientific belief as to the earth's existence.

But, now Sir Oliver Lodge, scientist, commanding universal respect, says the earth will probably last forever.

THAT is disappointing to those who hoped they would continue reappearing and improving here, until the earth died, and then start a series of existences on other planets and suns. (Continued on page eight, Col. six)

THrong JAMS TABERNACLE AT TWO MEETINGS

Many Grasp Hand of Evangelist Billy Sunday.

"CHRIST" TOPIC Hearers, Thrilled, Acclaim Revivalist at Night Service.

With people jamming every inch of available space within the tabernacle, others at windows protruding their heads inside and the platform crowded to capacity last night, Billy Sunday, spiritually deepened by 30 years' cumulative knowledge of Him, declared Jesus Christ to be "not the highest type of man, but the Son of Almighty God; a personage not dead, but alive, ruling and reigning and One to whom all must appear in judgment." His hearers, thrilled, arose and acclaimed the revivalist.

Many, as evidence a renewal of their loyalty, rushed forward to grasp the perspiring, but happy, evangelist by the hand. Finally, feeling the reaction from efforts of the day he yielded himself to the waiting Advance Man, Albert Peterson, who carefully wiped his brow, stuffed newspapers beneath his coat and under his shoulders, for he wears no vest, blanketed him with the heavy ulster which he affects and escorted him to a waiting car on the outside. He was taken to his hotel for a rest that will endure during today, there being no services on Mondays during any of his campaigns.

"What think ye of Christ?" was the query that he had propounded his audience which came from all sections of three states outside of the co-operating area hereabouts. "He is the greatest question you will ever be asked to answer and one you must answer," he hurled at the outset of his compelling discourse.

Calls for Plain Speaking.

"Generations unborn will be affected by this revival just as they were by the one which I held in East Liverpool 16 years ago," he exclaimed in the afternoon when to another crowded auditorium he averred "the hour is come for plain speaking to sinners by preachers and churchmen."

"There are people in East Liverpool who do not want to hear the unvarnished truth and hence they remain away from this tabernacle," he said. "They want to go along doing what they are now interested in and some of them following the personal opinions given in books and pulpits occasionally. Who is a liar but he who denies that Jesus is the Christ? That was the observation of John the Apostle. It is time that ministers forget the fear to harm the feelings of those who want only education and culture. These bring no salvation. Only repentance paves the way to a new birth and develops a saving faith. And this is not generally being preached these days. Our crime wave and empty (Continued on page eight, Col. Two)

Parade, in Which Two Bands, War Veterans and Students Participate, Held.

GAME RECEIPTS TOTAL $1,865.75

Rain and Snow Mar Program as Martin's Ferry Defeats Ceramic City Highs.

Featured by a colorful parade, in which two bands, delegations of World war veterans, students, school and municipal officials participated Patterson field, the school's athletic center, was formally dedicated yesterday afternoon before a crowd estimated to number more than 5,000 persons.

Rain and snow which fell throughout the morning and for a greater part of the afternoon tended to mar the ceremonies. The home football team went down to defeat at the hands of the Martins Ferry school gridders by the score of 31 to 0.

Receipts of the game exceeded the total of the first three games of the season. J. M. Decker, faculty manager, today announced receipts to have been $1,865.75, while $1,804 was collected at the Cleveland Holy Name, East Palestine and Bellaire games.

Adults 50-cent tickets netted $1,352, while student tickets brought in $345.25. Booster tickets added $113 while automobiles which were parked on the grounds, added $50.50. This total may be increased by receipts from other "booster" tickets which have not been reported.

War Flag Heads Procession.

Preciding the exercises at the field, school bands of the Martins Ferry and East Liverpool high schools paraded from the high school building to the West End lot. The procession formed on the West Eighth street side and marched to the south side of the grounds where the program was carried out.

At the head of the procession marched Miss Jane Faulk, who carried the flag held by Company E, Tenth Ohio Volunteer Infantry when it left for camp during the World war. Miss Gertrude Goodball carried the blue and white East Liverpool high school banner, while Miss Catherine Steffen carried the Martins Ferry high purple and white banner, which was later presented to the leaders of the visiting school delegation. The Third Street school drum corps, a group of 18-year old children, directed by Howard Cochran, marched next in the procession.

Prosecuting Attorney Robert Brooks, parade marshal, and two Boy Scout aides, next appeared. Then came the colors of Private Eddy Post No. 66 Veterans of Foreign Wars, with the color guard and the firing squad from the post. Back of them were carried the colors of the American Legion by two men in uniform. Six Boy Scouts carried an 8x12 flag for the flag pole.

Then came the East Liverpool high school band in their natty blue and white uniforms. The Martins Ferry 135-piece band in purple and white uniforms followed. Members of the (Continued on Page 8, Column 4)

Will A. Rhodes, former East Liverpool tenor, will take part in the program, celebrating the third anniversary of broadcasting of sacred songs from the KDKA station, Pittsburgh, tomorrow night.

Three programs will be presented. The first will be given by children from 5:20 to 6:30 o'clock and two other programs, one from 7 to 8:30 and the other from 10:30 to 11:30. The musical numbers will be interspersed with readings.

GROUND IS BROKEN FOR ST. ANN'S CATHOLIC RECTORY IN EAST END

Ground for the new $15,000 rectory of St. Ann's Catholic church, Pennsylvania avenue and Palissey street, East End, was broken at noon yesterday following the celebration of solemn high mass. The first spade of earth was turned by the Rev. Father John L. Mauer, pastor, assisted by members of the church council headed by Edward Holtzman. The two-story structure, contract for which was recently awarded to Henry Burkhardt, Oak street, will be constructed of white manganese brick with tile roof. It will be of colonial design and occupy a space, 32 by 42 feet, adjoining the present church. Plans were prepared by J. C. Cunningham, East Liverpool architect.

It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy within 90 days.

Rev. Father Mauer announced today that work on the proposed new school building which will occupy the corner of the lot facing Pennsylvania avenue, will not begin until spring.

PROSPECTIVE JUROR ASKED TO "HOLD OUT" IN OIL TRIAL

Stranger Approaches Man in Stewart Perjury Case.

TELLS JUSTICE

Government Makes Another Effort to Get Conviction.

By George E. Durno.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The perjury trial of Colonel Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, developed a sensation at the start today when a prospective juror arose in court and informed Justice Jennings Bailey that within the last 24 hours he had been approached by a mysterious stranger who asked him if he "would hold out in this case."

Stewart was one of the final figures to enter into the public airing of the manner in which former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall leased the naval oil reserves to the two millionaire operators, Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny. The United States supreme court has held these leases to be fraudulent, and the property has been returned to the government.

The Standard Oil man became involved when federal investigators developed that he was one of four men who guaranteed a highly profitable oil deal, of which $233,500 in Liberty bonds found their way to Secretary Fall just prior to the leasing of Teapot Dome to Sinclair. This deal was engineered by the "Continental Trading company, Ltd., of Canada," and resulted in a profit of more than $3,000,000.

Col. Stewart, called before the senate committee, swore he never had personally profited a single dollar from the transaction. Later, it developed he had received $759,500 in bonds from the Continental. He explained then that he had placed them in a trust fund to accrue at his death to the Standard Oil company of Indiana.

GUNMEN ATTACK FOOTBALL PLAYER

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—John Chandler Acher, 21, fullback on the Northwestern university football team, was near death today following an attack made upon him by four gunmen. A bullet penetrated Acher's back at the spinal column and even if he lives, physicians say, he probably will be paralyzed.

WOMAN, DESPONDENT OVER LOVE AFFAIR, SHOOTS SELF IN HIP

Despondent, police say, over a love affair, Mrs. Lucile Baldino, 21, Hubbard, shot herself through the fleshy part of her left hip at her rooming house at the rear of the Euclid hotel, Walnut street at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night. Her condition is not serious.

Mrs. Baldino came to East Liverpool last Thursday, police say, from Ashtabula. After herself she called to Albert Nose who left the house with her, looking for a doctor. At Sixth and Walnut streets they met Chief of Police McDermott who called an automobile and took the woman to the hospital. Dr. Turk dressed the wound.

In a woman's room police found two letters, one addressed to her mother, Mrs. Fannie Baldino, 207 Carpenter avenue, and the other to a Leonard Baldino, who is said to have formerly worked for a Chester contractor.

MEMORIES OF TEN YEARS AGO

An anniversary, tread of marching feet and martial music—these call up in the mind of the veteran in the picture a vision of that Armistice day, ten years ago, when, for the first time in four years, shells ceased to burst, bullets to whine on the long line from Switzerland to the sea. The photo above was made by a signal corps officer just before 11 o'clock on the morning of November 11, 1918, in the Meuse-Argonne sector of France.

Ten years after! Ten years that have sped with the swiftness of light since the "big push" ended with the enemy at last driven into his own territory. Ten years—years of prosperity to some of the boys who were in that final drive; years of suffering to many who, maimed in battle, lie in veterans' hospitals; years of sorrow to those who lost a father, a son or other close relatives in the terrible cataclysm of the World war. And today East Liverpool and all Ohio in common with the rest of the world observed the day when the German plenipotentiaries skinned their definite willingness to bring hostilities to an end.

NAB TWO MEN AS SUSPECTS IN HOLDUP AT STEUBENVILLE

Six Masked Bandits Escape With Money and Other Loot.

DENY CHARGES

Youths are Arrested on Wheeling Trolley Car.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 12.—Two men were arrested here today for questioning in connection with the Steubenville post office robbery last night in which six masked bandits escaped with money and valuables estimated as worth $40,000.

Postal inspectors called.

The men were arrested by Wheeling city detectives when they arrived here on a Wheeling Steubenville trolley car. They gave their names as Frank Irwin, 22, and Dewey Stephens, 28.

Both denied knowledge of the daring robbery but were held pending the arrival of postal inspectors from Steubenville.

Gag Assistant Postmaster.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 12.—Steubenville police and federal authorities today were apparently without a clue to the identities of six masked men who after binding and gagging Assistant Postmaster Charles Irwin, looted the Steubenville post-office safe and escaped with several registered mail pouches containing $40,000 last night.

It is believed the robbery was the work of experts who had made themselves thoroughly familiar with the routine of the postoffice as they chose the only night in the week when no clerks were on duty.

After the usual Sunday force left at 6:30 p. m., Irwin made an unexpected call at his office and noticed that the lights in the main mailing room were burning.

Two men masked, confronted him. His hands and feet were bound and a gag placed in his mouth. While lying helpless on the floor, Irwin said, he noticed four other robbers who had been hiding in the mailing room.

Open Postoffice Safe.

It required about two hours for the men to open the postoffice safe, Irwin said, after which the men fled.

The assistant postmaster freed himself an hour later and reported the robbery to police who instituted an immediate search and broadcast an alarm.

Two men were placed under arrest by Wheeling, W. Va., officers early today.

XENIA, O., Nov. 12.—Funeral arrangements were being made today for the body of seven-year-old Max Bogard, Jamestown, whose death was attributed to blood poisoning, following an injury received while playing football.

MAN IS SLAIN, WOMAN HELD

Prospero Carrozzi, Lisbon, Strangled With Necktie

Prospero Carrozzi, Lisbon, is dead today, while Mrs. Lena DeGarialamo, Middlebranch, near Canton, is being held by Stark county officials on a charge of manslaughter.

Carrozzi, according to the story told police by Mrs. DeGarialamo, was choked to death with his necktie, after he had entered her home early Saturday morning and threatened to kill her children. The woman, claiming she ran behind Carrozzi and seized him by the necktie. After she had held him for about 15 minutes, Mrs. DeGarialamo said that she released him and his body slumped to the floor.

Mrs. DeGarialamo ran to the house of the Diamond Portland Cement company where her husband is a foreman, and asked that the sheriff be called. The man was dead when two deputies reached the scene.

Carrozzi is said to have been employed by the Diamond Portland Cement company at Middlebranch, Ohio, and recently had been working in CANTON, O., Nov. 12.—The body of the strangled man, who was held in her home a Middlebranch, near here, Saturday, will be deposited by the county grand jury tomorrow, it was announced today.

"WHAT THINK YE OF CHRIST?" IS SUNDAY'S QUERY

In his Sunday night sermon, Billy Sunday said: "What shall I do with Jesus, which is called Christ?"

"Nineteen hundred years ago a star poised above a lowly manger in Bethlehem, and above the moonlit hills of Judea the angels heralded the beginning of the life of Jesus Christ upon this earth, who came to teach us the religion of human kindness, brotherly love and repentance through faith in his shed blood."

"No matter what he said or did, the Jews refused to acknowledge his claims as the Messiah, and their enmity finally culminated in the greatest tragedy that the brutality of man ever committed or the eye of God ever witnessed—the murder of Jesus Christ under false testimony. Jealous of his popularity, and rejecting his divinity, they resolved at all hazards to kill him."

"Not having the power of life and of death in their own hands or tribunals they denounced him before Pilate, the Roman governor. To stir up his enmity, they said that he was an impostor, that he had stirred up sedition and that he was an enemy of the government."

Pilate Examined Charges.

"And Pilate examined these charges they made against him, and being unable to prove him guilty of any of these worthy of death, Pilate proposed that they release him. But the rabble shrieked and screamed: 'No! Away with him! Give us a Barabbas!'"

"And next to Jesus, Pilate is the most important personage on the scene and it is from his lips fall the words I have taken for my next text. And when they cried 'Barabbas,' he turned to them: 'Well, then, what will I do with Jesus, which is called the Christ? I have got rid of Barabbas at your suggestion, but I still have Jesus on my hands.'"

"And Pilate was very near the line. He tried to reason with them and he arose from the throne and took Jesus by the hand and led him out in front of them: 'What shall I do then with Jesus, which is called the Christ?'"

"And so I lead him out before this audience tonight and I ask you the same words that Pilate asked the crowd that surged around the throne that day."

"Pilate was confronted, my friend, with difficulties. He had many things to encourage him and he had other things to discourage him. First, to encourage him, he had his wife's dream. The story of Mrs. Pilate is very briefly told in the Bible. It is all contained in one verse of scripture. It is no evidence of her worth and character as a woman that God descended to her. He revealed himself in a dream to Pharaoh, to Nebuchadnezzar. Yet for all we know Mrs. Pilate might have been a very reverent, devout woman, constantly on the alert to save her husband from the difficulties which she knew his miserable, pliable temper would lead him into. And somehow while she slept God worried her by a dream. What she revealed, I don't know, but it was presumably about Jesus and the part her husband was to play in this awful tragedy, because they couldn't put him on the cross without the consent of Pilate."

"And she sent a messenger to Pilate with the message: 'Have thou nothing to do with this just man. If others want to murder him, let them do so, but don't you ever be led to do it. Have nothing to do with him.'"

Personality Divine.

"So we have the personality of Jesus, never had such a personality appeared before Pilate for sentence. There he stood in His calmness, in His purity and in His power, more beautiful than a dream of Pericles."

"I am frank to tell you, if I was on a jury the personality of the man would have a long drag with me, almost as much as what the man would say on the witness stand. If I were called upon to try a man like Bryan, Roosevelt, I am frank to tell you their personality would have a tremendous drag with your Uncle Fuller."

"And so he had the personality of Jesus. He has the miracles of Jesus. I do not know that Pilate had ever witnessed Christ perform a miracle. I do not know that Pilate had ever seen a man or woman who had been a recipient of the power of Jesus. Possibly I that he knew about the miracles, for they were current conversation and there was no section of the country that he could go into that you couldn't find somebody that Jesus Christ had benefited either by opening their eyes or curing their lameness."

Both Influences at Work.

"So while certain things were trying to influence Pilate to get him on the side of Jesus, other things were trying to discourage him; and while God is trying to bring influence to bear to make you a Christian, the devil is bringing influence to bear to keep you away from Jesus."

"So Pilate had these things to consider: 'First, what would the Jews say? The Jews were at this time under the control of the Romans and the Romans were severe in their exactions and Pilate was the very triple essence of seventy. He was so harsh that some of the influential Jews had gone to Rome to intercede with Caesar to have Pilate recalled and a more kind and humane man placed over them in Jerusalem.'"

"Pilate knew that these Jews had no use for Jesus, and Pilate knew that if they heard that he had thrown his influence on the side of Jesus that would only increase their enmity and their hatred and they would bring stronger influence to bear. And Pilate figured it out: 'These Jews up at Jerusalem have no use for Jesus. They say he is a fraud. If they hear that I say that he is not a fraud they will have no use for me; but if they hear that I have denounced him, I will win their friendship, they will withdraw their opposition and I will hold my job.'"

Many Like Pilate.

"And Pilate was willing to let that gang nail Jesus Christ on the cross to keep their friendship and hold his job. He was perfectly willing to do it. Here are people that are willing to do the same thing today, all over land, for a trifling reason. And to my friends, asked himself: 'What would the Jews say about it?'"

"Pilate should not have yielded to their clamor. He should have been willing to sacrifice his office and his life to avoid convicting Jesus Christ, an innocent person. It was that Jewish hierarchy that threatened old Pilate as an officeholder."

"Pilate was a stand-pat, free-lunch, pie-counter, pliable, plastic, lickspittle, rathole, tin-horn, weasel-eyed, ward-heeling, grafting, whiskeysoaked politician of his day, pure and simple. Old Pilate was a direct product of the political system of Rome. Pilate was a typical machine politician, and there is no lower down scoundrel on earth than a mere typical machine politician."

Not Common People.

"It wasn't the common people—no—that led the mob. The common people shouted: 'Hosanna!' The common people pressed upon him to hear the word of God. The common people plucked branches from the trees and they tore the flowers and paved his way with memories of esteem. The common people tore off their garments and they threw them at his feet for paving stones as he went down the streets of Jerusalem. The common people? No! It was the temple thieves and the high priests, the elders, the scribes, the Pharisees, the hierarchy who possessed the delegated power and they used that power in defiance of the common people. They made a mistake when they gave the dirty pups the power."

"So, 'What will the Jews say?' 'Listen, 'What will Caesar say?' Caesar's word was law."

"Pilate says: 'If Caesar up at Rome hears that I have let Jesus go by that act admitted that I believe his claims are just, Caesar won't stand for it, off will come my head, and I will surely lose my job. But if Caesar hears that I say that this man, Jesus, is a fraud, and let them put him to the cross, he will know that I am on to my job and that I am working for the interest of Rome. I will win Caesar's favor and will keep my job.'"

Despises Man Like That.

"Oh, and he was willing to sacrifice Jesus Christ to please old Caesar and to please the gang that had no use for Jesus Christ. I despise a man like that. But hold on, I don't have to go out of this city to find people of the same low-down type as old Pilate was. 'Pilate often heard of Jesus, and no doubt, he was prejudiced against him and he was longing for the chance to present itself for him to pass sentence against Jesus. And I have imagined the look of wonder that swept over the face of Pilate as Jesus was ushered into his presence and Pilate turned to him and said: 'Art thou the Son of God?' and Jesus said: 'I am.'"

"I would take an unearthly imagination, something like that of Jules Verne or H. G. Wells, to imagine and picture the way history might have been different if a strong press had existed since the beginning of time. And I have often tried to imagine how different the early history might have been if there had been in Jerusalem a great Jewish daily, a string of popular newspapers down through Asia Minor at that time, say, a Hebrew Lord Northcliffe or a Jim Keeler of the Chicago Tribune, or a Pulitzer of a Hearst—Jesus would have been the newspaper sensation of his day."

"I know newspaper men as well as any man in America today, and there is no crown on this planet so quick to detect a fraud or that will rise more quickly and stand by righteousness and loyalty and sincerity than the newspaper men. And the way that Jesus Christ was treated, the shame and the venge and the straight from the shoulder blows he struck against the vested wrongs of his day and his biting, sarcastic epigrams and transparent sincerity and his big open-hearted mannerism would have won the heart and love of every reporter in Jerusalem if they had been there."

Popular With Masses.

"And a reading of the New Testament makes it mighty clear to the ordinary mind that Jesus at the time of his crucifixion was mighty popular with the masses. The common people heard him gladly. Only a little while before his crucifixion, Jerusalem turned out en masse to hear him, and they gave him a popular reception that looked like a 1917 'Wake Up America' parade when they went down the streets. And the only way that that miserable little clique of Jerusalem politicians and high priests could escape the wrath of the masses was to railroad Jesus Christ through under cover of darkness—that's the way. They knew that the proposition to crucify Jesus would never have stood the referendum test on God's earth. They knew that Jesus would have beaten them to a frazzle if they had ever put the thing to a vote."

"Just imagine what a hard time those high priests would have had if there had been a syndicate of newspapers that played up on the front page a three-column display headline about the villainy of that little crowd of religious bigots and crooked politicians who were intent on murdering Jesus Christ, who stood for the common people as no man in the history has stood, or no man in history ever will stand."

"So old Pilate called for a basin of water. He walked out before the crowd and washed his hands, and he said: 'I wash my hands of his blood. I find no fault in him.'"

"If he had washed his old black heart at the same time, he would have been a clean man."

"There has come to us from across the seas a book bearing the strange title, 'Letters from Hell,' the introduction to which was written by George McDonald. And in that book Pilate is represented in the lost world bending over a stream of water. (I think the author must have got his wires crossed, a stream of water in hell would have been the limit so far as my idea goes. That is just like the average fool novel writer any way.) And Pilate is represented bending over, dipping his hands in the water, and some one touches him on the shoulder and says:

"'Will they never be clean?' And they were as red as the blood of Jesus could make them, and with a shriek of agony that rang through the lost world he cried, 'Oh, will they never be clean?' No!"

"Poor Pilate! The blood of Jesus has been on you for nineteen hundred years in hell. It will be on you through an unending eternity. You had your chance that day in front of that gang in Jerusalem, and you were willing to let them nail him on the cross rather than stand pat by the side of Jesus Christ and for his truth."

Asked What To Do.

"What shall I do with Jesus, who is called Christ?"

"He didn't have the courage of his convictions. He was convinced that Jesus was right. Oh, if Pilate had bared his back and said, 'This man is on the level, you can take me and crucify me, but you can't touch one hair of his head'—he would have taken his stand in the same company with Joseph of Arimathea and other famous men. We would have been glad to have named our children after him, while tonight we speak his name with ignominy and repulsion. He had his chance. He was a miserable white-livered coward."

"Now, when old Pilate heard that Herod was in town he was glad to get rid of Jesus, so he shoved him over to Herod. Herod thought that Jesus was a sort of sleight-of-hand performer, a legerdemain, Chautauqua entertainer and had a bunch of high-rollers, and he asked Jesus to come up and perform a few miracles just to entertain the crowd."

No Answer Given.

"Jesus answered the fox never a word and they secured him and sent him back to old Pilate. He had heard John the Baptist preach. John had said: 'This isn't for you to have your brother's wife.' He wanted Jesus and his brother Philip's wife, but he couldn't have both, so he turned Jesus down and kept his brother Philip's wife, which was against the law."

"If you are willing to forsake every known sin, God will forgive you, but you can't compromise the thing."

"What shall I do with Jesus? You must do one of two things, either accept or reject him. There is nothing else to do. Neutrality is absolutely impossible. The opportunity to do right—oh, imposes the obligation to do right. There is no middle ground; you either accept or reject."

"Queen Elizabeth gave to her lover, the Earl of Essex—and, as many historians say, her paramour—a ring of wondrous beauty and of fabulous price and said:

"Take this as an evidence of my undying affection for you and if ever you need my friendship, if you will return this ring as an evidence of your appeal for clemency, I will grant you any petition, even to pardoning you for treason."

"And time rolled on and her lover, the Earl of Essex, was arrested on a trumped up charge of treason by his political enemies, and remembering the Queen's request, he sent the ring back to her as an appeal for her pardon, and one of her maids-in-waiting, Countess of Nottingham, had sought to engraft her affections into those of the Earl of Essex, and he spurned her advances, and like the proverbial worm, she turned."

"They gave her the ring. She withheld the ring, from sheer spite, and when the Queen learned that he had been arrested she was so proud to take the initiative to send a messenger up to ask for the ring, and sleep forsook her couch. She denied herself friends and she refused food. The days went by and all night long she would be awake, thinking about him."

Paced Palace.

"The night before the day of execution she paced the palace. She would wring her hands and sob and moan in grief. She'd frame her face in the window, and look out through the darkness, trying to catch a glimpse of light of the messengers coming with the ring as an appeal. They didn't come. The day dawned and the axe of the headsman gleamed in the air, and the head of her lover, the Earl of Essex, rolled in the dust; and when she learned that he had sent the ring and that the Countess of Nottingham had withheld it she flew at her and would have torn her heart from her breast and trampled it beneath her feet if friends hadn't interceded and torn her from her. And from that day until on her deathbed she cried, with 3,500 dresses hanging in her wardrobe, her jewels by the peck, she moaned and said: 'All my possessions for one moment of time, for brokenhearted Queen Elizabeth never knew surcease from sorrow.'"

"What shall I do with Jesus? You can be a trimmer. Wait a minute. It didn't pay for old Pilate to trim and I want to warn you before you make that decision, if you do, it won't pay for you to. Pilate was a trimmer, and he afterwards lost the favor of Caesar. He lost his reason and died at the hands of a suicide. That was the end of Pilate. He trimmed the proposition. It won't pay for you; it did not pay for him."

Can Do as Judas Did.

"You can do as Judas did. You can betray him, you can sell him. Judas got thirty pieces of silver—$15.52. What did you get?"

"Did you get that automobile you drove up here tonight?"

"Did you get that suit of clothes you are wearing?"

"Did you get that dress you have on?"

"Did you get the jewels that scintillate from your ears? Oh, what did you get?"

"Did you get a raise in salary?"

"Did you get enough money to buy that house?"

"You can do just as Judas did—you can sell him. Some people sell him and give their virtue; they sell their manhood, their womanhood, their honesty, I am not asking you to do it—they did. You may do the same thing if you wish."

What To Do Next?

"What shall I do then? That is describing some future time and between the choice of one or two things. If I hold something in this hand, if you reject this you accept that by subterfuge. What shall I do then?"

"You can repute his divinity if you want to, but if you have got the warm, glowing historical Christ on hand left with you. Go ahead, what will you do? You can't write the history of this world and leave Jesus out of it any more than you can write the history of Rome and leave Julius Caesar or Marc Anthony out, or you can write the history of the United States and leave George Washington or Benjamin Franklin or Aaron Burr or Admiral Dewey or Decatur or any one else out."

"Jesus Christ was truly a historical character. Don't you know, my friends, that Julius Caesar lived and died forty-two years before Jesus Christ was born?"

"You have been in Central Park. You have noticed that great monument that William Vanderbilt placed there at an expense of $100,000? That monument stood in Egypt when Joseph was a boy. Oh, we are not so far from the cross of Jesus Christ. And when you look upon that monument you look at something that Moses may have touched or Joseph may have touched—at least they looked upon it."

Wilson No Fool.

"What will you do with the historical Christ? What will these folks, weak-minded and all those that sneered at Jesus' strong intellect do? Was President Wilson a fool? He was a believer in Jesus Christ and a worshiper in Him as the Son of God. Was Grover Cleveland a fool? Was Benjamin Harrison a fool? Are the members of the United States senate and house of representatives, and justices of the supreme court—are they all fools? They are believers in Jesus Christ as the Son of God."

Was William Jennings Bryan a fool? He was a believer in Jesus Christ as the Son of God? Was Theodore Roosevelt a fool? He was a believer in Jesus Christ as the Son of God. What are you going to do with the Christ of these Christian men?

"Was the late William McKinley a fool? When the assassin's bullet struck him down at Buffalo, fondly and reverently did he pray that he would be spared, and when they gave him the anesthetic and the doctors bent over him to catch what might have been his last words, he was muttering the Lord's prayer."

Born into Heaven.

"There was one way you came in to the world—you were born. There is one way you will get into heaven—you must be born again. You have had a physical birth, you must have a spiritual birth and that must come through Jesus Christ as the Son of God."

"Then 'why should I believe?' You ought to believe because of the glory and the perfection of his character. Oh, I wish I could find words to describe what I feel in my heart. I feel myself in a position analogous to the poet. He gropes for words when he says:

Oh, could I speak the matchless worth,
Oh, could I show the glories forth
That in my Savior shine,
I would soar and touch the heavenly strings,
And vie with Gabriel while he sings
Notes divine.
I would sing the character he wears,
And all the love he bears,
Exalted on his throne."

Challenges Infidels.

"Does Jesus Christ lack anything in your esteem? Wherein does he fall to measure up to your highest ideal? If God should ask you wherein Jesus Christ doesn't measure up to your ideal, where could you improve? What could you suggest that would improve Jesus Christ? I would like to know. I would be very glad to know."

"A man said: 'If you can find me an absolutely flawless character I will worship him.'"

"I challenge all the infidels on earth or in hell to find one flaw in the character of Jesus Christ."

"What shall I do? Not with Caesar, not with the Old Testament, not with the Jews, not with politics, not with society—your treatment of Jesus Christ will determine the salvation or the damnation of others. No man or woman on earth, no matter how low down or high up can confer the results of your acts to yourself. What you do influences other people. They are either damned or pleased by whatever you do. So just remember what you are doing. It isn't for you alone, others are going to decide what they will do by what you do."

Was King of Jews.

"The people said he was the Messiah. He was the King of the Jews, the Son of God."

"What shall I do? I do not present Jesus Christ to you as the highest type of manhood. No, I wouldn't insult him that way, savior of the world. The Bible doesn't present Jesus as the highest type of manhood—not at all. It presents him from another standpoint."

"You have difficulty in believing his divinity? I will tell you, that is because you measure him by the rules you apply to men, and you always will. You just put him in the God class and it won't be a difficult thing for you to understand it. You measure Jesus by the task he came to perform."

"If Shakespeare should enter this tabernacle we would all stand and reverently bow. If Jesus Christ should sweep down that aisle we would all kneel and bow our heads in humility as he would sweep by in all his regal splendor, sir."

Oh if Jesus could come down here, I wouldn't let him get all the way here. I would jump from the platform and go to meet him. He saved me and my wife and children and I'll go where he commands me to go, and I'll go where he wants me to go. We ought to do that for him because of the sacrifice that he made for us."

ROOSEVELT GETS 26,518 PLURALITY

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for governor of New York, defeated his Republican opponent, Albert Ottinger, by a plurality of 26,518 according to a semi-official tabulation of the votes completed today by Robert Moscos, secretary of state.

The official count, however cannot be obtained by the secretary of state's office until Dec. 1 when the state board of canvassers meets at the capitol. This is one of the closest gubernatorial contests in the history of the empire state and Ottinger refuses to concede defeat.

No effort was made by Moscos to compile the vote for the United States senate post, but it was announced at the state department that Senator Royal S. Copeland, Democrat, had been re-elected by a plurality of more than 50,000. Senator Copeland's opponent was Alanson B. Houghton of Corning, former ambassador to England, who already has announced that he will return to the Court of St. James.

Henry Arthur Jones, the noted dramatic author, recently celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday at his home at Hampstead, England.

LORAIN PUPILS ASK CHEAP FARE

LORAIN, O., Nov. 11.—The Lorain school board's fight for cheaper street car fares for school children will be carried to the state utilities commission next week, it was learned today.

Recently the Lorain street railway put into effect an increase of from five to eight cents on street car fares. Previously, children enroute to and from schools had been allowed a three-cent fare, but with the increase this was raised to seven cents.

W. C. Fisher, president of the school board, said he would probably file a protest with the public utilities commission after the next board meeting.

Roll Call Week

Appeal to East Liverpool people to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the armistice by dedicating themselves anew to the relief of suffering humanity was made today by the American Red Cross as the twelfth annual roll call was launched by 3,500 chapters throughout the United States.

A minimum membership of 5,000,000 men and women for 1929 is asked by the national chapter, which, in most cities, will devote the period between Armistice day and Thanksgiving day to this worthwhile work.

In the Ceramic City, three days—Thursday, Friday and Saturday—of Armistice week have been designated for the campaign. A house-to-house canvass will be made by women, under the direction of the campaign chairman, the Rev. Edgar A. Walker, Emanuel Presbyterian church pastor, on two days, while on the closing day booths will be established in two banks and the downtown office.

The general membership is one dollar. Others range as high as $100.

European Situation

Returning from a visit of two months abroad, Premier MacKenzie King, of Canada, expressed the pleasure he experienced in noting that Europe gives every sign of having worked her way back to a normal condition of living and business.

"Traveling through France and different parts over which I traveled after the war when conditions were abnormal," said Premier King, "I was impressed with the fact that this time conditions in France showed marked improvement. Things are going ahead in impressive manner."

"As regards the British Islands I think the conditions are much more prosperous than we have been led to believe by Jeremiahs. While some unemployment exists, things have vastly improved and the mind of the people has improved. Economic conditions have improved."

There can not be any two views as to the significance of the signing of the Kellogg peace pact. Nations which have put their signatures to it have formally declared that they renounce war as an instrument of national policy, which means that they must find other methods of settling differences and that is logically leading them to discover methods of arbitration and conciliation to that end.

"What is interesting to other nations is that Canada and the United States have already worked out the very thing that they are struggling for in Europe, namely the Rush-Bagot treaty, by which we decided that there should be no armaments on the Great Lakes and renounced war as a means of settling differences."

We on this side of the Atlantic naturally are glad to have the opinion of a close and intelligent observer such as the premier has proved in the past to have been tell us that living conditions and business in Europe are now along normal lines. And there confessedly is some encouragement in his view that the Kellogg peace pact is working as an instrument for the substitution of arbitration and conciliation for warfare for the settlement of international differences. But that Europe is struggling to bring about a parallel in Europe of the conditions existing between the United States and Canada is somewhat difficult of belief in view of the steady increase of European armaments.

It is not so difficult to view a possible time when the nations of Europe will recognize war alike as an economic crime and a crime against humanity. That time may be near at hand. It may be already here. But to see Europe tearing down her fortifications, abandoning her army posts, clearing her lakes, rivers and seas of warships, reducing her armies until they are mere skeletons of what the armies of Europe are today—that is entirely beyond the capabilities of the ordinary vision. Before that is accomplished there must be an entire change in European thought and European heart which are what they are today through long years and in some cases centuries of schooling. And more than all else, fear must be erased from the European heart. When the various nations of Europe are able to acquire confidence in each other, when Europe is unafraid, then her nations can be to each other as are the United States and Canada.

Gene And Literary Salon

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney, the newlyweds, have rented a house in London and it is their intention later on to set up a literary salon there. This is, insofar as the records disclose, the first time a prize fighter has deliberately set out to have a salon. John L. Sullivan had one, but he spelled it with two "o's" and the conversation there was not literary.

It is questionable if Mr. Tunney's salon will be very successful. By the time he gets it operating there will be a new heavyweight champion of the world, and as a literature alone, Gene will have little to offer the cognoscenti.

Despite his friendship for Thornton Wilder, Mr. Tunney has yet to contribute anything to literature besides writing endorsements for athletic underwear and his name on checks. Those things, to be sure, are beyond the average literary artist, but they don't make for successful salons. The Tunneys are nice folks but Gene is no Sam Johnson and his Missus scarcely a Madame Recamier.

Avoiding Strikes

Matthew Wohl, one of the country's foremost labor leaders, recently told a labor convention that organized labor avoid the use of strikes wherever and whenever possible. He bases his advice on experience.

"It is a mistaken idea," he adds, "to think that strikes should never be resorted to."

There can be no objection to that. The strike is a declaration of industrial war, and cannot be absolutely banned as long as we still justify resort to arms in national emergencies. But more and more, the sentiment of mankind is coming to condemn both military and industrial warfare as wickedly wasteful and unreasonable, and to seek peaceful means of avoiding them.

Mr. Wohl says that "greater skill and ingenuity" appears in obtaining acceptable results without resort to strikes. It will help industrial and international peace mightily if that fact is more widely recognized.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 12.—Perhaps one of the most difficult tasks of the department of commerce lies in overcoming the idea, prevalent among the general business public, that the hand of government is a restrictive one. The popular conception of government is that it is a sort of super-policeman whose presence is inimical to freedom of activity. Such an idea has been fostered because of necessary governmental prosecutions of trusts which have sought to restrain trade, of regulation of a protective sort, as in the matter of food inspection, and in the supervision of interstate commerce. Every activity is, of course, in the interest of the general public but the business man is inclined to the belief that he is over-regulated.

For these reasons it has proved somewhat difficult for the department of commerce to advocate the business community into the idea that there is at least one government agency which does practically no regulating but stands ready to help the business man in every legitimate way, from the formulation of a broad general policy of manufacturing or merchandizing even to actual, individual aid in the closing of sales. So often have government agents approached business with regulation for their purpose that when such agents approach with a helping hand they are under suspicion; they are looked upon as Greeks bearing gifts.

Herbert Hoover, as secretary of commerce, did much to break down this prejudice and his successor, Secretary Whiting, is changing his policy in no particular, but rather aiming to extend the work so far as possible.

Until Herbert Hoover became secretary, the department did practically nothing in the field of domestic commerce. The building up of the foreign trade absorbed all of its promotional energies. But Hoover established a division of domestic commerce which is proving of the utmost aid to American business men who will avail themselves of its services.

This division makes intensive studies of problems which perplex business men. Commanding facilities for gathering information, it can obtain a broader view of a given situation than could any single merchant or manufacturer or even association. It has at its disposal the detailed returns of the census of manufactures, collected by the bureau of the census. From these data, coupled with other, it can reveal conclusions hidden from private investigators.

For example, the division of domestic commerce has discovered that 750,000 retail stores in the United States have sales of less than $25,000 a year. Out of this sum must come the cost of goods purchased at wholesale, clerk hire, delivery service, if any, store rent, heat, light, and general overhead. If a net profit is made of 10 per cent that profit would be only $2,500 a year. In like manner, it is shown that 150,000 American manufacturers have an annual output of less than $100,000 apiece. From this gross figure must be subtracted the cost of raw material, of plant, of machinery, power, employee payroll, and advertising and selling costs and general overhead. Here a 10 per cent net profit would be but $10,000, a meager sum to be distributed among owners of such establishments. Certainly there are vastly more than 150,000 persons who draw salaries far in excess of the $10,000 net profits which these 150,000 manufacturers make.

By revealing such figures the department shows that there are two sides to the high cost of living complaint which has been general in every age of reported history.

The domestic commerce division has shown that a profound change is taking place in methods of business. The old lines no longer are followed.

It is an age of transition in American business which the nation is experiencing and this government agency is studying its every experimental turn. So far, however, it has reached this definite conclusion: the three jobs of manufacturer, wholesaler, and retailer must be done by somebody. If one organization does the whole thing, it merely is a different arrangement of an old alignment.

The chain store has entered the field to an astonishing degree and independent merchants find in their growth a source of alarm. The domestic commerce division is seeking to show the independents how they can meet this new competition. Not that the division takes sides, one way or another. It is as ready to assist the chain store organization asking its help as the independent, but it can show the independent the economies which are to be effected by careful buying arrangements and it also can instruct the chain store organization of the advantages of close personal contact which the independent has with his customers.

In a large variety of ways, the division is able to give tangible assistance to the merchant, big or little. And it does not deal in generalities which might be uttered by an after dinner speaker. Agents of the department and publications, couched in the languages of the trades which they are intended to assist, are available to give sound, practical assistance of dollars and cents value.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Diary of a modern Peeps: Lay abed distressed over a flood of hills but came a note from William S. Hart to visit him at his Horseshoe ranch. And recalled a year ago this day was troubled more than ever in my life and for foolish reasons, so up, singing merrily in the bath.

It came on to rain in torrents and Marshall Nelson, the director, came and recalled a typical Webster cartoon of wading barefoot in the gutter after a fresh spring shower. Out after the rain and put in to see Russell Patterson, the illustrator, who was away.

In the evening to a dinner party and sitting next a lady harpist tried to see if her fair fingers were calloused from plucking strings but could not and too shy to ask. Then to "Gin Home," a stirring play, and talked to Antoinette Perry, so well remembered in Warfield's "The Music Master." To bed late.

The classy clientele among Broadway theatres and cafes has long been referred to as the "carriage trade." Nothing is so swank to New Yorkers as the old-fashioned horse-drawn carriage. When a Wall Street operator has a heavy loss he "takes one on the nose."

Broadway will have—Parkins, my horse—a block long soda and sandwich counter this spring. It is planned to have an entrance on the Main Stem running through to Sixth Avenue. Sixty clerks will serve 98 varieties of soft drinks and even a large variety of sandwiches.

In a cellar cafeteria in the Forties, noon time patrons are regaled with strolling cabaret performers. High-class singing and dancing acts are changed monthly. One lady stopped to sing at my table just as a sandwich filled with mayonnaise backfired over my coat front. All I could do was to try to look wistful.

New York dog fanciers for the first time in 10 years saw a litter of pug puppies last week. They were on display in a dog shop window and were imported from California. They sold like the hot cake is supposed to sell. But doesn't.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Every mother is eager to have her young folks as attractive in appearance as it is possible for them to be. She is unhappy if the boy or girl has an unsightly skin.

I shall say little about girls today, but it won't hurt for them to ponder these statements. For the boys, however, I'm sure it will be worth while to listen.

The average boy who has a pimply face does not wash himself clean. Please do not misunderstand me. He may use more soap and water than his brother or friend who has a clear skin. But some faces require more water, soap and scrubbing than do others.

If the skin has large pores and is inclined to be greasy, it takes a lot of care to cleanse it thoroughly. Hard water and a slap-dash bathing won't do.

As a matter of fact, it is surprising how much dirt may be left on the skin after what may be regarded as pretty thorough washing. Wet the corner of the towel with a little alcohol and after you think the face is clean, rub it over the neck or forehead—you will be embarrassed to see how black the cloth becomes.

In most cities the water supply is very hard. The solvent powers are low. Consequently, this water does not cleanse the skin, as soft water does.

To have a clean skin, the first essential is to use an abundance of suitable water. There are salts which can be purchased at the drug store, salts which have the property of softening water.

Not every soap is suited to hard water. There can be bought what are called "hard-water" soaps. They combine more readily with the chemical elements of the water and, consequently are more useful for cleansing the skin.

It is a fact, too, that a given soap may not agree with a particular skin. You must try one after another until an acceptable soap is found.

I am sorry to say that many per-

New York has more than 100 newspaper stands and small shops operated by the blind. Many are said to make $5,000 a year. The public invariably and deservedly overpays the blind.

Don't you mean the heels of journalism, Mister?

Many boys eat too much fat, too much pastry, too much candy. Boys sneer at salads and often think they are too big to drink milk.

If boys want to have clear skins, they must eat the right foods; they must avoid the wrong ones. The lad with the greasy skin and big pores must dodge the fats, such as an excess of butter. When taken into the system in excess they add an undesirable quantity of a substance which the skin does not need. If the skin is too greasy it catches and holds the dust and dirt.

The green leaves used in salads and good milk carry minerals and vitamins, substances which the boys must take if they are to have clear skins. They must drink plenty of water and make sure that the eliminative organs do their work completely.

These are suggestions which if acted upon will make for the clear skin of any boy or girl.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy.

Do You Give Gladly?

To what sort of a gallery do you play?

To some certain person or group of persons?

Not to afford them more pleasure, but to give them a favorable impression of yourself is what you play for, isn't it?

That means you are selfish in most of your actions where others are concerned.

And this very selfishness is the cause of your limited success.

It is easy to explain—you are not sincere.

Always play acting one way or another for what you can get out of it.

Don't you know that insincerity never brings results?

It does not ring true, and is easily understood by the onlooker.

If your efforts to help others were honest you would derive joy from giving happiness.

But such an attitude is not yours. You are seeing your own pleasure—you don't want to be hampered by the thought of what some one else might prefer.

You perform many kind acts with little satisfaction, because you are not genuine in your wish to give pleasure to others.

There can be no genuine joy where selfishness rules.

New Treasury Activity.

Before the end of the year the United States treasury will again deal with maturing obligations through extensive refinancing. Three series of certificates of indebtedness, amounting to $879,676,000, fall due on December 15. In the same month approximately $25,000,000 in saving certificates, discontinued in 1924, also are to be retired. In January an additional sum of $47,000,000 in these is payable.

The operation, combined with the earlier refunding of the third Liberty loan and action on several issues of certificates of indebtedness, will have made 1928 a period of heavy work in government money matters. The treasury spokesmen are giving no indication, as yet, concerning the form the new offering will take. With the multiplication of short-term obligations, a feature of developments in late years, the government has on a few occasions given more sign that it would like to substitute long-term bonds for this form of investment. The market preference, however, has been so plainly for the other kind of maturities that the effort has not got far.—Indianapolis News.

Rely on Ruth

[every day in the month!]

Business girls who let menstrual periods interfere with duty have not learned of Midol. This remarkable preparation neither hinders nor banishes the natural process of menstruation, but it does stop the pain.

Midol is not a narcotic. It is just as safe as it is direct and certain. It is only common sense to use it. You have probably tried other things for menstrual pains, but so had the many thousands of women who today bless Midol. It brings complete ease in five to seven minutes. Or prevents pain starting, taken in time. Every drugstore has the trim little aluminum case of Midol to tuck in your purse, for fifty cents!

Splendid Recipe To Stop A Cough That "Hangs On"

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be made at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any drugstore can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar, or strained honey. It's no sugar syrup at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this home-made remedy loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which usually follow the "flu," are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of cressets, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles. Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief of money refunded.

ANDERSON COAL "COMES CLEAN"

The W. T. Anderson coal company, with office and yards in the East End, recently placed in operation a Barber-Greene automatic coal loader and vibrating shaker screen.

By the use of this equipment, people who purchase coal from the Anderson company are assured of good clean fuel without the usual dirt and dust, which are screened out.

The Barber-Greene loader and shaker screen is the only piece of its type in this territory, officials of the Anderson company point out.

Offering a complete service, modern and up-to-the-minute in every respect, covering the field of welding and repairing like a blanket, the Weaver Welding Company today stands out more pre-eminently than ever before as one of the leading establishments of its kind in eastern Ohio.

Achievements—a long list of them in almost every phase of welding—have combined to build a reputation for this East Liverpool plant that proves conclusively the value of its services to the industrial concern, large or small, the motorist, the mechanic, and even the home.

"See Weaver for Welding."

Just jot that down in your memorandum. Doesn't make any difference whether you're a busy office executive or just some one who feels that sometime Weaver might save you a few dollars.

For that's the secret of the success of the Weaver plant, you see. In the first place, the plant does a thorough, efficient job when called to any assignment. In the second place, welding saves the trouble and, more important, the expense, of buying something new. Welding means dollars saved and the business of saving dollars is important.

Weaver does not engage in electric welding but works solely with the oxy-acetylene method which, he points out, covers a much wider field than the electric method. By this means, repairs are possible on anything in the aluminum line, such as aluminum, fittings and things of that nature. Besides he will weld broken stove legs, interior furnace parts, boilers, etc., which ought to interest the folks who like their home and its belongings in ship-shape over all the time.

He will handle almost anything in the automobile line where welding is advisable.

He has lots of that to do, as well as drill press work and repairs on industrial equipment.

And the shop owner should appreciate the fact that when he can't go to Weaver, Weaver will come to him.

Mr. Weaver has a truck equipped with apparatus that he can take any place for welding, in town or out of town—anywhere—and will turn you out satisfactory work right on your own premises.

Steel, bronze, brass, copper and cast iron jobs are specialties with him.

So the next time you need something fixed, "See Weaver the Welder," and save the difference.

gold or green gold hammered panels, or smooth panels.

In kitchen and laundry fixtures the improvement is equally pronounced. New sink models are shown with backs low enough to fit under a low broad kitchen window. The compartments are deeper, permitting tall vessels to go under the faucet and preventing over-the-rim splashing. The fronts are wide, adding a new line of beauty.

Did you realize all these things could be obtained to make the home more attractive and more convenient. The W. C. Kinsey and Sons, plumbers, can give you practically anything

FLYING CLOUDS SET NEW RECORDS

The new Reo Flying Clouds have been making performance records throughout Ohio during the last few months, and despite the powerful motor with which it is equipped, it is considered very economical on fuel according to the Reo Sales and Service Co., Seventh street, the distributors here.

Last week the owner of a Flying Cloud brougham drove his car 237 miles into the hills of western Pennsylvania and averaged 13.16 miles per gallon for the trip. In addition to the driver, there were four passengers.

No attempt was made at a saving of fuel and the car was driven at a speed of 40 to 50 miles per hour for the entire trip while on the open road.

The local distributors say this clearly shows that it is possible to have a powerful car and at the same time operate it on an economical fuel basis.

Shall the house be placed on the sidewalk line with the porch at the rear?

Should the dining room be eliminated?

Shall each bedroom have its private bath?

Shall the porch be built on the roof for greater air and privacy?

Which among the vast number of conveniences offered are most worthy of installation?

How can space in basement and attic be made useful?

These are but a few of the questions the present day builder must answer and he can probably find no better or more satisfactory method of progressing toward a happy culmination of his efforts than consulting with his lumber dealer, men who are experienced, and following their advice. Concerns like the Finley Brothers Lumber company count this in as part of their service, for which there is no extra charge.

A lot of things depend on the answers to the above questions and the man who is building can find no better way of getting the right answer than talking things over with the lumber man.

Real value depends upon them. We are not a nation of owners of ancestral homes. Incomes grow rapidly and old homes make way for new ones. Nor are we respecters of precedents; we do not hesitate to throw out the beliefs of yesterday. And when we do a thing we do it all the way—"whole hog or none," as the saying goes. We must recognize these characteristics when we build.

The Finley Brothers Lumber company, you'll find will serve you with a complete line of materials and sound, valuable suggestions and advice.

FRAIL DETROIT YOUTH ADMITS KILLING WIDOW

Plumber's Helper Says He Used Furnace Shaker.

CRIME NETS $35

Jerks Ear Rings From Victim, Then Flees.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 12.—Jack Blair, a frail, timid plumber's helper, was held by police today following his confession that he killed Mrs. Jane Lantz, wealthy widow.

Blair, according to police, said the crime netted him only $35—the amount a pawnbroker loaned him for jewelry ear rings torn from the dead woman's ears.

Mrs. Lantz was killed with a furnace shaker in the basement of her home.

Blair told police he needed money.

He knew Mrs. Lantz was rich and figured there would be money about the house. He had worked in the house, helping to install a furnace, and his visit aroused no suspicion of foul play in Mrs. Lantz's mind, he told police.

While discussing his work on the furnace, he picked up the furnace shaker and struck her twice. Then he jerked the ear rings from their fastenings, and fled.

Three hours later he pawned the rings for $35, changed hotels and packed his grip.

The pawnbroker, reading of the missing ear rings in the newspapers, called police and Blair was taken into custody. He confessed after first making a halfhearted denial of the crime.

Throng Hears Sunday

church pews are thus readily explained.

Bulwarking his preaching efforts both at night and the afternoon were two outstanding preliminary musical services that were directed by Homer Rodenhaver. Utilizing his constant platform company, the trombone, he captivated his hearers by renditions with that instrument. The great augmented choir for the day met fully the demands of the director and with Robert Matthews and Miss Florence Kinney at the pianos the songs sung reverberated throughout the vast sawdust expanse.

Miss Kinney Lauds Choir.

"This is positively the best choir we have ever encountered," appreciatively confided Miss Kinney between songs as she developed enthusiasm at what Rodenhaver dubbed "Antiphonal choir" was doing in the farthest recesses of the lumber structure. "This, too, is the best we have heard," she said, as obeying the cool and deliberate batonman on the platform those standing and sitting in the ten-rear seats caught and threw back lines of appealing hymns in high and low tone as if they had been practicing the departure for weeks rather than essaying it for the first time during this campaign.

"You are going to hear a lot of fine musical features in the course of this revival," said Rodenhaver as he introduced the Chester, W. Va. Board of Trade, double quartet which sang "Reign Massa Jesus."

Accompanied by Mrs. A. H. Mackall it consisted of Messrs. Rev. May M. Davis, Frank N. Richmond, L. A. Britton, C. G. Woods, Cyril Taylor, Joseph May, Robert M. Douglas and Robert A. Mercer.

Following a trombone solo by Rodenhaver the night singing was appropriately linked to the discourse to follow by the entire audience rising and in unison singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name."

Afternoon Musical Service.

In the afternoon musical preliminary Rodenhaver took cognizance of Armistice day by a trombone solo "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean." Then all stood in further deference of the day to sing "The Star Spangled Banner." By request Messrs. Rodenhaver and Peterson sang "When the Gates Swing Outward Never," by Gabriel, the piece having been written by the composer following the parting of his son for overseas duty. Rodenhaver also sang "The King of Kings," accompanied by Matthews.

Three Special Nights.

Announcement was made at both services of three special nights this week, Tuesday, Presbyterians; Wednesday, Baptists, Christians and Salvation Army; Thursday, Methodists.

These denominations are to march to the tabernacle and be seated together on these occasions. All of the services will be for everybody, however.

Initial meeting of the Bible class which is always taught by Miss Florence Kinney will be held on Tuesday afternoon immediately following the afternoon sermon by Mr. Sunday.

Church members particularly have been admonished of the peculiar form of the afternoon sermons by Mr. Sunday. "Why, in Madisonville, Ky., where the majority of them had to come from the country there were frequently more than a thousand in attendance during the day sessions," Mr. Sunday has declared.

On Tuesday morning also will be held two district prayer meetings. Both will be held in Methodist churches—Pennsylvania Avenue and Orchard Grove. Mrs. Sunday will speak at the former and Miss Kinney at the latter.

"Mothers' Friday Afternoon Topic.

Mr. Sunday saying that he would preach every afternoon and evening this week, except on Monday, declared that his subject on Friday afternoon would be "Mothers."

Children are to have a special service on Saturday afternoon which will take the form of an illustrated lecture by Mr. Sunday. It will begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

The first men's meeting will be held on next Sunday afternoon at the tabernacle when Mr. Sunday will speak. At the same time in the First Presbyterian church a special meeting for women will be held. It will be addressed by Miss Florence Kinney. Later in the revival Mrs. Sunday will speak to women. Both of the gatherings are to begin at 2 o'clock.

The discovery was made during the afternoon that more than half of the congregation was made up of people from outside of East Liverpool. So keen is the interest in the services by many from a distance that many arrived in the city during the morning and attended other churches when they found there was not a meeting at the tabernacle until the afternoon. From Canton came a long distance call to the office of the First Presbyterian church during the peroration of the Rev. J. H. Lawther's sermon. What was wanted was the time of the services, at the tabernacle during the day.

The invocations during the day were made by the Rev. W. H. Baker and E. A. Walker, pastors of the First Church of Christ and the Emmanuel Presbyterian churches respectively.

The business announcements were made by the Rev. Mr. Beechey, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist church in the afternoon and Rodenhaver in the evening.

Lauds Newspaper Men.

Mr. Sunday during the night discourse paid a marked tribute to the press of the country which he said, "had aided him greatly in dispensing the gospel story by which an untold number throughout the years had experienced conversion by reading his sermons when unable to attend the services. I have perhaps been given more space in the columns than any other man in America. I hereby express my appreciation therefore and at the same time want to say that I have never been double-crossed by a newspaper man in any capacity."

"I often wonder what a sensation newspaper men could have had in Jerusalem during and following the Crucifixion if papers were then being published in Asia Minor. The early history of the church might have been much different had newspapers then been in vogue."

That a revival is necessary in East Liverpool was emphasized in an out-

MAN OVERCOME IN OHIO FIRE

Another Burned as He Rescues Brother at Lancaster.

LANCASTER, O., Nov. 12.—Everett Ford, 26, was overcome by smoke and was severely burned early today when fire damaged the upholstery establishment conducted jointly by himself and his brother, Delbert, 25.

Delbert was slightly burned when, aided by two other men, he entered the smoke-saturated place and rescued his brother whose exit had been blocked by an overturned davenport. The brothers, who came here from Cambridge about 18 months ago, used the rear part of the store for sleeping quarters.

The fire was believed due to sparks from a coal stove.

standing sermon on Sunday afternoon. His text was John 17:1, "The Hour is Come."

"God has not forsaken the world but the world has forsaken God," was the initial declaration of the evangelist. "His love remains despite the fact that the world has turned its back on Him. And yet because his son, Jesus Christ, triumphant in his resurrection, has conquered death, there is mercy, full pardon, freedom from sin and eternal life for all who, repentant, turn to him and through faith accept the salvation which He so freely offers. The door has been thrown open to every one. Had He not risen the pulpits of Jerusalem would have been covered with mourning. Jesus lives. We do not worship a dead Jew, but a living, reigning Christ."

He pointed out the fact that the present constitutes the last days of the final dispensation. "East Liverpool accordingly is facing a spiritual crisis. Never has there been such a time in which to show faith and loyalty in the Christ who is to be known for redemption as now."

He told how persons come to him everyday since his return here to say how they had started into the kingdom 15 years ago when he was in East Liverpool and how the babies of that time were high school pupils now and under the influence of the former revival. "Generations yet unborn will be affected by this revival of 1920 as were those unborn in 1912," he said. It is important to them therefore as to what interest you show in it. The longer you put off a physical crisis the worse it is for you. The same truth is as true in spiritual delay.

Because of sin, he declared the curse of God rests on the human race and upon the ground of the earth. By its death has come into the world. It faces all. Father Time is on your track. You can not dodge him. "Churches are a means not the end," he stressed. "It is the business of the church to bring souls into the kingdom of God. It is the duty of preachers to preach salvation. To many of them do not do so and offer culture and education instead. Shall we sit idly by and watch human souls drift to hell?"

The church is not a place of entertainment, amusement or for propagation of education. It is an institution in which to save souls from their sins. Because many preachers have departed from this fact in their preaching it has lost its influence and fails to attract as it should, can and must. We see the spectacle of ministers preaching culture and their own personal opinions and their choirs sing some non-understandable music while people all about them are going to hell so fast they can not be seen for dust.

He told of such a church in which the staid elders would not permit lively hymns and the preacher was careful not to offend any one by his sermons. "A young Mission worker one day filled the pulpit and told their scriptural truths," he said, "making the minister apologetic to one of his members who declared 'That is what we need. Had my son heard that kind of preaching he would not be a victim of drink he lying under two feet of snow in yonder cemetery.' The hour has come for plain preaching." Mr. Sunday vehemently asserted, "People should be told what is the matter with them just as diogenesians tell you what is the matter with you physically. You would not want a doctor to pooh pooh your ills would you? How much more should you know what your spiritual shortcomings are since upon them depends your eternal destiny."

Many do not come to these meetings because they do not want to be told the truth. They want to remain in their sins. They want peace, but there is and can never be peace to the wicked. They want preachers to preach of babbling brooks, birds and books rather than to be told of the water of life, the rose of Sharon and scriptural verities."

He charged the church because of its departure from the preaching of scriptural truths with responsibility for the prevailing crime wave in the country and low standard of morals.

Deplores Lack of Spiritual Tone.

"What right has a minister to give his own personal opinion against the word of God?" he thundered. "It is no wonder that the isms of the day according has made the junk that we hear so frequently emanating from. All not preaching the word are liars. Who is a liar but he that denies that Jesus is the Christ? That is plain and from the letter of John."

"Why do we need a twentieth century adaptation of a religion? Why don't you have a twentieth century sun, a twentieth century brain a twentieth century head and heart? You came into this world and but one way—by being born and you will enter the kingdom of God only when you have experienced the new birth. That fact, assimilated, constituted your Twentieth Century and all century adaptations. There is no other way, not even by education or culture."

He deplored the lack of spiritual tone in present day churches. What will you do with persons when you do take them into such churches, he asked? It is a calamity to put new born souls in such churches as to attempt to nurture a babe at the breast of an Egyptian mummy.

EX-CONGRESSMAN KENNEDY DIES

Funeral services for James Kennedy, 75, former congressman from the Eighteenth Ohio congressional district, who died in Youngstown, Friday, were conducted in his home, 131 West Madison avenue, there yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Kennedy represented this district in congress for four terms. He was an attorney by profession, being a member of the Mahoning County Bar association for 49 years.

He was born in Poland township, Mahoning county, September 2, 1853, and after attending the Poland seminary entered Westminster college at New Wilmington, from which he graduated in 1876. He studied law under the late T. W. Sanderson and was admitted to practice in 1879.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Wall Street "heard from the country" today in the shape of a huge accumulation of week-end buying orders for the stocks which set the dizzy pace of the market last week.

In blocks of 10,000 to 25,000 shares they crowded the big trading mart at the beginning of the new week and in the first quarter of an hour the tape clicked off 500,000 shares. While Montgomery Ward paused in its spectacular race, radio shot forward another 12 points.

Wall street heard today that the short interest in radio is close to 50,000 shares, which is comparatively heavy for a stock as closely held as this. The big electrical manufacturing companies and the powerful speculators in and out of Wall Street had practically locked up the 1,100,000 common shares of the stock outstanding, and the shorts have taken a terrific beating.

Radio started to skyrocket from the lower 50's. Skillful preparation of the market to reflect the "Hoover prosperity" was the work of a strong and powerful bull clique, fortified with millions and hundreds of millions of dollars in real money. Speculation has now reached its wildest stage, traders shunning in pell-mell to buy stocks with little or no regard to the swiftly changing panorama of values.

Dedicate Field

school boards of the two cities, heirs of the Patterson estate, city officials, postmaster, members of the program committee and school officials brought up the rear of the procession.

Presentation of Field.

Cheer after cheer resounded from both sides of the athletic field as the marchers crossed to the south side of the grounds. The parade was preceded and concluded by the firing of aerial bombs from the railroad property just south of the field.

The flag was raised to the top of the pole to the refrain of "The Star Spangled Banner," played by the East Liverpool high school band, followed by a flag salute fired by the riflemen. Following the salute, Attorney Charles Boyd, appearing for the Patterson heirs, presented the grounds to the schools in the name of the late Monroe Patterson.

"It was the will of the late Mr. Patterson that this field be set aside for playground purposes to fill a long-felt need in the schools of our city," said Mr. Boyd. "We desire to express our thanks to the board of education for the work they have done to make this dream of our late relative come true. May your athletics prosper and may the field prove an asset in your possession. It is left in your care and the care of your successors for the benefit of our athletic activities."

Speech of Acceptance.

The field was accepted by Fred O. Glenn, president of the board of education. He said:

"It is the intention of the board of education to maintain and develop this field. We hope our fellow citizens will appreciate what has been done and that the public will support any measures that may be taken to further the completion of this public playground. We are indeed grateful to our late friend, Monroe Patterson, for his generosity and munificence. We feel sure that the activities in athletics on this field will develop a finer type of citizenship and a higher standard of sportsmanship for our city."

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum in turn accepted the grounds in the name of the city. The mayor expressed the hope that the grounds would be the means of developing a better manhood and womanhood in the city in his remarks.

This was followed by a selection by the Martins Ferry band after which the banner was presented them. The parade then formed in the same manner and marched across the field when it disbanded. Reserved seats were occupied by school board officials and for all who participated in the parade.

The committee in charge of the dedication included Dr. Collin Kinsey, school board member, chairman; Lee C. Cooper, in charge of organization and bombs; Superintendent of Schools C. S. McVay, correspondence; B. G. Ludwig, high school principal; Miss Bertha Artz and Miss Ruth Willis, program; F. O. Glenn, president of the school board, and J. M. Decker, faculty manager field committee, and H. J. Kaufman, publicity.

FOUR HURT AS AUTOS CRASH

East Pittsburgh Man Sustains Serious Injuries.

Four persons were injured, one seriously, in automobile accidents in the East Liverpool district over the week-end.

Gordon Leslie, 26, East Pittsburgh, Pa., mill worker, sustained a fractured left shoulder and a possible fractured skull when the motor car in which he was riding crashed in to a parked machine owned by Ralph Snyder in Midland avenue, Midland, Pa., at 9:30 o'clock last night. He was taken to the Rochester General hospital in the Dennis ambulance, Midland. Ambrose Weaver, 31, also of East Pittsburgh, driver of the car, is being held by Midland police on a charge of reckless driving pending the outcome of Leslie's injuries. He was not hurt. Both men are employed at Crucible Steel company.

Hugh McPherson, near Lisbon, was cut in the face and Mrs. Kirk Chandler, also of near Lisbon, suffered minor injuries when cars driven by the latter's husband and Guy Franz collided two miles west of Lisbon, Saturday afternoon. The accident is said to have occurred when Chandler attempted to pull around a truck traveling in the same direction. McPherson riding with Franz was cut by broken windshield glass. He was attended by Dr. J. C. Gruber, Lisbon. Both cars, badly wrecked, were taken to a Lisbon garage.

Mrs. F. R. Bennington, Ohio avenue, sustained cuts in the face in a collision between an automobile driven by her husband and another driven by O. Carter, Midland, in Pennsylvania avenue, near the "red steps," at 8 o'clock Saturday night. Bennington who was arrested by Patrolman Richards following the accident, was fined $10 and costs upon a reckless driving charge by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley, yesterday. Mrs. Bennington was taken to the City hospital where her injuries were dressed. Both cars, which were badly damaged, were removed by the McElravy Brothers' wrecker.

Two-minute Silence

St. George, will celebrate the holiday with a banquet in St. Stephen's parish house, Fourth street, at 6 o'clock tonight. John J. Purinton will be toastmaster, while Attorney W. H. Vorey will be the principal speaker. A musical program and dancing will follow the dinner.

Probate Judge Lodge Riddle will be the speaker at the Armistice day banquet and jamboree, by East Liverpool Post No. 4, American Legion in the American restaurant annex, Market street, at 6 o'clock tonight. Riddle's subject will be "Ten Years Ago." A program of vaudeville will also be featured.

Members of the Elks lodge will entertain 75 children from the McCollough-Jefferson County Children's home this afternoon and tonight. The lodge will give a dance after the children's program.

Carroll Council No. 509, Knights of Columbus, will entertain with an Armistice day card party in the Ingram building tonight.

Don Olive Drab

In Columbus, olive balls were shaken from the olive drab, as the "boys" who answered the call in '17 donned the old familiar "O. D.'s." Here was scheduled a mammoth parade by the American legion and other veteran organizations climaxed by a tribute to their comrade dead who have answered their last reveille.

Several thousand veterans marched in Cincinnati with their "Old Brothers," the Boy Scouts, forming a rear guard.

Ten years have gone far toward sweeping away bitterness and hatred that Lorain once may have felt. Here World war veterans—German veterans—will be entertained by the Lorain post, American Legion.

Huge Parade in Canton.

Canton's observance was mostly in the form of a huge parade, while in Toledo, "Miss American Legion" was chosen to preside over the evening's program.

At Youngstown, all business came to a halt at 11 o'clock, and residents, with bared heads, observed two minutes of silent prayer.

And so it went, throughout the state, all observed the end of the fight to "make the world safe for democracy."

TODAY

"In my father's house are many mansions." It would be pleasant to travel from one to the other, spending a few billion years on each and winding up on some magnificent, central sphere, where the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary secure a real rest.

MRS. PANKHURST, and Shakespear, probably talking together in Heaven at this moment, will be interested in this news. The English cities have elected women mayors, including Stratford-on-Avon.

The mayor of a city is simply a wholesale housekeeper, and women are good housekeepers. Also they are more honest than men, and less conceited.

AN intelligent grand jury in New Jersey says moving pictures on Sunday are not criminal and refuses to indict exhibitors.

The greatest moving pictures include Niagara, a fine sunset and a waving forest. The Lord does not close them down on Sunday. And anyhow, the Sabbath was made for man, and not made to be a day of boredom.

Those that object to Sunday movies should stay at home, others go, if they choose.

Merely making amusing films is too much like building sand castles on the seashore.

SENATOR NORRIS, of Nebraska, says "False issues won the election." His false issues are "religion and prohibition."

One big, real issue also won the election and that issue is PROSPERITY. Men with big wages, booming business and high priced stocks voted to keep those things.

BIG Republicans, it is said, oppose "punishing Norris for his insubordination." They are wise Republicans. Herbert Hoover will remind them that a United States senator has the right to think, talk and vote as he pleases. The attempt to bully young La Follette was enough foolishness of that kind.

EIGHTY THOUSAND rain-raiding Americans watched Notre Dame play football against the Army team. How many of the 80,000 would sit in the cold, listening to a debate on some highly moral or scientific subject? What, should you say, is the average intellectual level of this age?

ONCE students of the University of Paris sat, in icy cold rooms, at four in the morning, attending early lectures, by Abelard and other able men. And poor students that could not afford candles, climbed church steeples to read their books by moonlight.

HERBERT HOOVER's popular vote, according to latest returns, is about 21,000,000; Governor Smith's vote about 16,000,000. Each candidate beat his party's record, substantially.

Police Probe $2,000 Explosion and Fire

Find Piece of Burned Fuse in Alfonso Carubio Home, 1207 Anderson Avenue. Owner is Missing.

WELLSVILLE, O., Nov. 12—Police today continued their investigation of the explosion and fire which Saturday night partially wrecked the six-room frame residence at 1207 Anderson avenue owned by Alfonso Carubio, at a loss estimated at approximately $2,000.

Discovery of a 14-inch piece of fuse, which had been partially burned, supports the authorities' belief that the explosion was of incendiary origin.

The noise of the explosion was heard at 10:10 o'clock Saturday night. The fire department immediately responded and, through quick and efficient action, not only extinguished the fire in the Carubio home but also prevented the spread of flames to homes adjoining.

The porch of the Carubio home was blown loose from the main structure, police said, the front end of the dwelling was bulged and there was considerable damage inside.

Neither Carubio, who is said to have carried $2,500 fire insurance on the property, nor members of his family, have been located.

High Squad Crushed By Martins Ferry Steam Roller, 31 To 0

Hill's Combine Shows Smooth, Strong Offense

Sommers and McFarland Smash Potter Defenses for 19 First Downs; Blue and White Attack Unable to Function.

Five thousand football fans Saturday afternoon at Patterson Field saw Martins Ferry high school football team tramp East Liverpool high school eleven into the mire of defeat by the score of 31 to 0.

They saw Coach Pierre Hill, Martins Ferry mentor, send out one of the smoothest scholastic aggregations that ever performed in this city.

Martins Ferry was simply too much for East Liverpool. From the start to the finish the game produced series of marches up the field for Martins Ferry touchdowns, with Fullback Sommers and Quarterback McFarland playing the leading roles.

The Hurstmen were helpless against the onslaught of the Ferrians who smashed through the Blue and White forward wall for 19 first downs, and completed four out of five forward passes.

East Liverpool's offense was practically nil against the stone wall defense of the visitors, the Hurstmen making one first down and one out of three forward passes.

The Belmont countians played mostly straight football to make their gains, not resorting to the aerial route until the latter part of the game, the passes playing a big part in the last two touchdowns scored by the Ferrians.

Led by Captain Sommers and his quarterback, McFarland, Coach Hill's boys began to rip holes through the local line as soon as they got possession of the ball. Four straight first downs, with Sommers and McFarland carrying the platoon, meant a touchdown for Martins Ferry. Sommers going over the line, smash through right guard for the first score of the game.

After the first touchdown, there was no stopping to the Martins Ferry lads. Aided by real interference, with Sommers and McFarland doing most of the ball carrying, the Ferrians circled the flanks, hit the tackles, smashed through the guards, and forward passed for four more touchdowns. Somers, the outstanding star of the game, going over for the first four touchdowns.

While Coach Hill's men were showing the crowd a real exhibition of football the locals were performing their poorest game of the season. The performance of the Blue and White grid-ders were far below the form that they showed against Bellaire and other teams.

Coach Hurst started a different lineup in Saturday game. Adding weight to the backfield he started

DETAILED STORY OF FERRY TRIUMPH

First Quarter.

The game started off by the Ferrians kicking off to East Liverpool. Drobec booting, Wooley, on the first scrimmage play, went through left tackle for five yards. Clark failed to gain. Wooley picked up two more yards at right guard. On the fourth down Witherow punted from the 20 yard line to the Martins Ferry 45. On the first play McFarland dashed around right end for 20 yards. Sommers smashed through the line for a first down. McFarland added eight more yards through the line. Sommers crashed his way for another first down. Two more runs through the line by Sommers meant another first down for Martins Ferry, putting the ball near East Liverpool's goal line. Sommers ripped through for the first touchdown of the game. McFarland's dropkick failed.

Feit went in for McConville. Drobec kicked off for the Ferrians. Wooley failed to gain. East Liverpool fumbled and Martins Ferry recovered. The Ferrians started up the field for another touchdown. McFarland circled right end for four yards. Sommers plunked through right tackle for two. McFarland picked up four more yards and another first down. Skidmore replaced Wooley. McFarland sprinted around right end for another first down. Sommers, on two plays through the line, added another first down for Martins Ferry and hit right tackle for two more. East Liverpool was penalized five yards for being off side. Sommers crashed through the line for another first down.

On the next play Sommers went over for a touchdown on a line plunge. Again the Ferrians failed to make the extra point.

Drobec kicked off for the Ferrians. Skidmore getting the ball on the 15 yard line and carrying it up to East Liverpool's 30. He fumbled and Oden recovered for Martins Ferry. Oden fumbled and Witherow recovered for East Liverpool on East Liverpool's 49 yard line. Skidmore lost five yards on an end run. A forward pass from Mackall to Feit was grounded. Mills took Dalrymple's place and Dalrymple replaced Crawford on the line. Skidmore went through right tackle for five yards. The quarter ended 12 to 0 in Martins Ferry's favor.

Second Quarter.

The second quarter started by Mackall punting from his own 35 to Martins Ferry's 40. Sommers dashed through the line for a first down. Oden and McFarland crashed their way for another first down. Sommers plunked the line for seven yards. Sommers sprinted up the field for another first down, putting the ball in place for another touchdown.

Sommers plunked through the line for his third touchdown of the game. Again Coach Hill's boys failed to make the extra point. Drobec kicking a nice Martins Ferry, Mackall making a nice run up the field for 25 yards. East Liverpool could not gain and lost the ball on downs. The Ferrians found the going hard and Drobec punted out of bounds on East Liverpool's 49 yard line.

A forward pass failed for East Liverpool. The Hurstmen lost the ball

Score by quarters:
Martins Ferry 12 6 6 7-31
Touchdowns—Sommers 4, Ogden; point after touchdown, Sommers (line plunge). Substitutions—Martins Ferry—McCaferly for Sommers, Lasse for Ogden, Pucci for Drobec, Reynard for McFarland; East Liverpool—Feit for McConville, Skidmore for Wooley, Mills for Dalrymple, Dalrymple for Crawford, Bowen for Mackall, Wucherer for Clark.
Time of quarters—12 minutes.
Referee—Patton; umpire—Stretter; headlineman—McChure.

Mackall, Dalrymple, Wooley and Clark, Crawford and McCoy taking the places of Clark and Dalrymple at tackle, and Dickey playing in Woolley's place at guard. This lineup did not come up to expectations. The line was weakened without Clark and Dalrymple, and before the first quarter was over they were playing their old positions.

But even with Clark and Dalrymple playing on the line, the Ferrians ripped holes through the local defenses and circled the flanks for frequent gains.

Captain Sommers was easily the star of the game. There was no stopping this boy. He smashed through East Liverpool's line for four touchdowns and was an important figure in the other touchdowns scored by Ogden.

Drobec did some nice punting for the Ferrians. The linemen of the Ferrians put up a real exhibition holding the locals to one first down.

Bob Witherow, Clark and Skidmore were the best performers for East Liverpool. Witherow's playing being one of the few redeeming features of the Potters' playing.

Clark kicked off for East Liverpool, Drobec receiving the ball on his 35 yard line and carrying it up the field for five yards. Sommers smashed his way through for another first down. A forward pass from McFarland to Drobec was good for 20 yards. On four tries at the line Sommers added another first down to his credit. Martins Ferry was penalized 15 yards for holding. Two successful forward passes for the Ferrians put the ball on East Liverpool's 10 yard line. Here the Hurstmen showed a stonewall defense and they took the ball on downs. Skidmore punting from his own goal line to East Liverpool's 15. Sommers got a first in ten and on the next two plays he plunked his way for another touchdown. The point after touchdown was missed.

Drobec kicked off. The Hurstmen failed to gain and Skidmore punted to Drobec. Sommers and McFarland wandered through the line for another first down, the quarter ending 24 to 0 in the Ferrians favor.

Sommers dashed around right end for five yards. On a double pass from McFarland to Sommers to Drobec. Drobec dashed up the field for 15 yards and the last touchdown of the game. Sommers crashed the line for the extra point.

Drobec kicked off to Mackall. Mackall going up the field for 20 yards. A forward pass from Mackall to Skidmore meant the first and only first down of the game for East Liverpool. Skidmore added five more yards for East Liverpool.

The Hurstmen failed to gain and lost the ball on downs. McFarland circled right end for eight yards. Drobec made another first down for the visitors. Seeing that victory was assured Coach Hill began to send his second stringers in, and the game ended with the ball in East Liverpool's possession on its own 45 yard line.

The game was one of the cleanest football games played here for a long time, only 35 yards having been lost through penalties. The Ferrians lost 30 yards and the Hurstmen five.

Women deer hunters in the Highlands of Scotland were more numerous this year than ever before.

Unbeaten Grid List Dwindles

Yale, Army, Ohio State Lose; and There May be Others.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Sitting the wheat from the chaff, or good natured buffoonery of the past time, leaves intercollegiate football with little to do today but to break right down and laugh in its own face. The contention among title-hunters has become so avid that soon there may be no contention at all, this notion having come to mind with the thought that soon there may be no contenders.

The ray, having dreamed its dreams of national dominion, joined the practical jokers on Saturday by losing to Notre Dame and, from now on, it will be foot loose and head free in the matter of playing what pranks it might, with Nebraska's undiluted record. The case is typical; for every surviving winner, there is a loser who yet may rise to beat him. The hitherto unbeaten teams of Vanderbilt, Georgetown and Ohio State also made their laughing exit on Saturday and Vanderbilt at least will be at large to prey on other contenders for the rest of the season. Their respective conquerors, Georgia Tech, Carnegie Tech and Iowa, remain in the lists of the undefeated, however.

As matters stood today, the leading contenders in the various sections had been narrowed down to the following, listed in the order of their prominence:

East—Carnegie Tech, Boston College, Princeton.
South—Georgia Tech, Florida, Tennessee.
Middle west—Iowa, Wisconsin.
Big Six and adjacent sections—Nebraska.
Pacific coast—Southern California, California.

In addition to those mentioned, there remain unbeaten teams at Detroit and Villanova but none of them really play the schedule they might. At that, they may blow one yet. There isn't a team in the list that can't.

For example, Iowa, which clearly earned its elimination of Ohio State, could lose to Wisconsin, which was tied by Purdue, which lost to Minnesota, leaving us nowhere. Carnegie Tech can lose to Notre Dame, which lost to Wisconsin, which brings us back to the same point, i. e., nowhere. Southern California could lose to Notre Dame and we have the same result. California may be beaten by Stanford, which seems to be on its way back. Florida isn't likely to lose to Clemson or W. & J. but at least one contender must pass away when it meets Tennessee.

All the latter would have to do in the meantime, to hurry us back to nowhere, would be to lose to Vanderbilt, beaten convincingly on Saturday by Tech. The latter might lose to Alabama, which lost to Wisconsin and there we are again—nowhere.

Tris Speaker Is Center for Newark Bears

"Gray Eagle" Will be Highest Paid Minor Loop Pilot.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 12.—Tris Speaker, famous outfielder who yesterday signed a two-year contract to manage the Newark Bears, will be a playing manager. Before leaving for Cleveland last night the "gray eagle" announced he would fill the center field post for the Bears next season. Newark fans were jubilant today over the signing of "Spike." While the veteran's batting eye was somewhat dimmed last season with the Athletics, in his 22nd year on the big time circuit, Speaker is expected to take a new lease on life against International league pitching.

While the amount of Speaker's salary was not disclosed, James P. Sinton, president of the Newark club, intimated that the Texan would be the highest paid manager in the minor leagues next season.

The gray eagle succeeds Walter Johnson, called back to pilot the Washington Senators after managing Newark for one year. Speaker played with four American league teams, Boston, Cleveland, Washington and Philadelphia. He managed Cleveland for eight years and led the Indians to a pennant and a world's championship in 1920. He was regarded by many as the greatest outfielder of all time.

STRONG CLINCHES SCORING CROWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Ken Strong, New York university halfback, has practically clinched the individual scoring crown in the east and has an excellent chance to better the eastern record of 125 points for a season, set last year by Myles Lane of Dartmouth. Strong has a total of 118 points for this year, 40 more than his nearest contender, Gulick, of Hobart. The New Yorker made 27 points against Alfred last Saturday.

The leaders with their touchdowns, field goals, points after touchdowns and total points are as follows:

Player	TD	FG	PAT	Total
Strong, N. Y. U.	15	0	22	118
Gulick, Hobart	13	0	0	78

He'll Pilot Braves

Back to the Boston Braves goes Johnny Evers, one-time star second sacker of the old Cubs. This time the peppery Johnny will don the toga of leadership as captain and field manager. He was signed by Judge Fuchs to fill the niche occupied by Rogers Hornsby, acquired by the Cubs for $200,000 cash and five players.

Saints Hand Reserve Its First Licking

Wittenberg Ties Bishops for Leadership in Big Six.

Everybody knows just what happened to the "Eyes" Saturday last when the eyes following "Hawk" saw too good or did something too good for the eyes coming after "Back" in the affair at Columbus.

But that defeat was no more galling to the Scarlet and Gray than was the melee at Cincinnati when the heretofore unbeaten Western Reserve eleven went down to defeat at the hands of St. Xavier. This was two firsts—St. Xavier's first Ohio conference game and the Cleveland's first short end of a score.

Other conference games went about as hoped, the only thing being off was scores in some cases.

The Big Six standings were changed. While Ohio Wesleyan was winning an inter-sectional game with Syracuse down east, Wittenberg walked all over Denison, thereby tying the bishops for first place with three wins and no defeats, and putting Denison in a three-cornered tie with Ohio and Miami for second place.

Finally, the tallender of the Northwest conference, took a fall out of DePue, causing that team to leave Bowling Green in undisputed top position. Bowling Green played a non-conference foe last week.

Hiram, so long the "football" team of the conference, rung up its third straight conference victory Saturday at the expense of Capital, Baldwin-Wallace, ran its consecutive losing streak to eight when Akron took them into camp.

Heidelberg maintained its position among the leaders in the conference by mopping up the soggy gridiron with Otterbein.

Wellsville Victor Over Leetonia, 20-6

Orange and Black Offense Shows Improvement.

After a terrible showing a week ago at Lisbon, Coach Evans, Wellsville high gridders snapped out of their slump Saturday afternoon at Nicholson Field to hand Leetonia a 20 to 6 drubbing.

The Orange and Black drove hard against the visitors in the opening period to score two touchdowns. The second and third were blanks and the Leetonians came through with their only score of the game in the final canto which, however, was offset as the Wellsville eleven added its third. Pacey, Snowden and Checkler smashed their way to the Leetonia 11 yard line and a pass, Pacey to Faber, brought the first touchdown.

Leetonia resorted to the forward pass. They got away with a 40 yard heave after the kick off following the touchdown and then Snowden intercepted one of their tosses and ran 71 yards for a touchdown.

A Wellsville fumble on their own 20 yard line gave the Leetonians their chance to score in the final period. The Leetonians tried a couple of line plays and then Beltempo passed to Mingo for the touchdown.

The Orange came back strong to score in the closing minutes. After a series of passes which put the ball on the 10 yard line, Snowden played the line for the remaining distance.

Wellsville completed six out of 12 passes for a gain of 84 yards and made 24 first downs to Leetonia's three.

Terry McManus Will Tackle Powers in Wellsville Ring

Pittsburgh Boxer-puncher Takes Place of Tomosky, Ill With Pneumonia, on Tonight's Card at Wellsville.

STRICKEN Friday with an illness which yesterday developed into a mild form of pneumonia, George Tomosky, Wilmerding boxer, will not be forced to face the flying gloves of Jackie Powers, Youngstown flyweight, in Ray Foutts' punching party tonight at Wellsville, but—in his stead, there'll be Terry McManus, a so-called Pittsburgher, who, possibly, may give Powers a warmer session than Tomosky could be figured to give him.

Foutts received a telegram Saturday night at Wellsville, but—in his stead, there'll be Terry McManus, a so-called Pittsburgher, who, possibly, may give Powers a warmer session than Tomosky could be figured to give him.

He immediately plucked into the Pittsburgh cauliflower market and came up with a nice hardy specimen in the person of Terry McManus.

McManus, essentially, is a fast boxer but he probably has considerable of an edge on Tomosky in the power of his punches and this, after all, may be more essential to a life of ease in the ring with Powers than boxing ability alone.

At all events, the substitution is not expected to react to the detriment of the show.

Harry Morris an Johnny Pollock are billed for an eight round session in the other half of the double wind-up planned for tonight.

Ernest Hill, Wellsville colored boxer who believes this is his lucky week, tackles Tarzan Joe Poole, Lawrenceville light heavyweight, in one of the

CHESTER LOSES AT FOLLANSBEE

Tangling with Follansbee high, one of the strong contenders of the upper Panhandle, Chester high gridders were defeated by a count of 38 to 0 Saturday at Follansbee.

The Purple and Gold failed to display the power of the 1927 squad that triumphed over the strong Follansbee contingent at Chester.

Garvey Injured.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—Yale's chances of defeating Princeton next Saturday were dimmed today by the injuries which Johnny Garvey, Eli's best ball carrier, received in the Maryland game. Coach Stevens said that Garvey would be kept out of the lineup against Princeton.

Dillonvale Eleven Bows At Irondale

Winners Push Forward to County Championship.

IRONDALE, O., Nov. 12.—Irondale high's undefeated grid squad Friday drove another nail into its Jefferson county championship claims with a 25 to 0 victory over Dillonvale.

The game was marked by the sensational running of James Sprendi, Irondale quarterback.

The Irondale eleven marked up two touchdowns in the opening period, another in the second and a fourth in the final period. Sprendi scored three times with the help of great interference and M. Ray went over for the other following a long pass from Chetock.

Irondale to date has run up 162 points to its opponents' 37, and has yet to meet defeat.

The lineup:	Dillonvale

Thrilling story of love of two girls for the same man

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

She felt beautiful, just remembering it. She lifted her face to his, faintly smiling, and in the glare of a passing streetlight he saw the misty, starry wonder of her eyes, the parted sweetness of her lips.

"I don't know why I didn't know you . . . and I guess was because I never really saw you before, and I guess I never thought I'd ever really know you . . . did you really know me again? Was that why you spoke to me, back there, in the coffee shop?"

She was so young and pleading, so pathetically, tragically young . . .

"Sure I knew you. Knew you right away. What did you think?"

She gave a little shuddering sigh of happiness, and gazed closer to his rough, tawny forehead. The car sped on, houses passed in a beautiful blur . . . everything was beautiful . . . the deserted streets, the foggy night, the street lamps at the corners.

"I went to all the games!" she said suddenly out of the silence. "I never missed one!"

"Never missed one what?"

"Football game—that you played!"

"Oh!" He chuckled. "You mean when I was in college—how did you remember all that?" But he was pleased . . . so she'd seen him play . . . Well, those were the days, Daphne—

They lapsed into silence again, each acutely conscious of the other's nearness. When he stopped in front of the ugly, square old house where the Tinkles lived she couldn't believe that they were there already.

"Well, here we are, safe and sound," he said.

"Yes, here we are," she echoed, unwilling to leave him so soon, not knowing how to keep him, or how to ask him to see her again. "Here we are!" And she didn't make any move to get out.

He grinned, and stopped the motor. "So this is where you are living. Well, well! What did the family say about this city life?"

"Oh, they don't care."

"No?"

"I mean they know I'm here working—at least they know I'm in San Francisco. But please, please don't say anything to Crystal about me. I don't want anyone to know until—until I'm settled."

"Why should I say anything to Crystal?"

"Don't you see Crystal any more?" And at the thought that he might not, her face was illumined again, all shining with hope. If he didn't see Crystal, he might come to see her, he might . . .

"Oh, I see her once in a while," he said indifferently, as if he were speaking of something uninteresting that didn't concern them at all. Then leaning toward her again, more intimately, "You're out of work, aren't you?"

"No, it's just that I haven't found any yet—"

"And you have just five cents left! I'll say you're unconcerned about it. My Lord, out of a job, and five cents—and not turning a hair. It beats me!"

He looked at her with such frank admiration in his handsome face that she tingled with excitement, feeling herself the heroine of an adventure almost glowing over her own hard luck. "Oh something'll turn up!" she said airily, forgetting the black despair of a few short hours ago.

"Well, I'm going to lend you ten bucks—yes I am—don't argue with me, and I'll get you a job. I know a lot of people. There's one fellow in particular . . . well, I'll see him, and I'll give you a ring in a day or two. Sure ten is enough? Now don't worry, and we'll have something for you in no time . . . sure you won't worry?"

"Of course not! And I'll pay you back—"

"Plenty of time for that." He waited while she fitted her latch key in the door. "Well—good night!"

"Good night!" She closed the door slowly, and watched him through the glass while he went back to the car, and drove away.

It was dark and musty in the hall, but Daphne didn't mind. She sang under her breath as she groped her way along the wall, past the parlor, past the marble table and hat rack, to her own door. "Lay my head beneath the rose!" she sang softly, a little breathlessly, the song the lurching seamen had sung on the wharves, near the black waters. But she had forgotten where she had heard it, she didn't even know she was singing. The song just bubbled out of her throat as a bird's song does, because she was so happy. She had found Ralph again, and he liked her . . . everything would come out all right.

As she was undressing she thought disquietly, "I shouldn't have let him lend me that money . . . it's awful to take money from a man!" But it was Ralph who had loaned it, and Ralph was different. Anything that Ralph did would be all right.

She was smiling to herself again as she stood on tiptoes in her plain white nightgown, and turned off the light. She crawled into bed without stopping to remove the faded Turkey red coverlet that was supposed to turn it into a couch by day. Her tired body relaxed, but she couldn't sleep, she was too happy. She lay, with parted lips, looking out into the dark alley, watching the torn curtain flutter in the faint night wind.

He wanted to kiss me when he said goodnight . . . I know he did . . . I could tell by the way he leaned toward me, sort of asking with his eyes . . . if I had leaned toward him then . . . I wish I had . . . no, I don't . . . yes I do . . .

Ding, Ding. Old Mrs. Hinkle's clock striking in the kitchen. Was it really two o'clock already. She'd have to stop thinking, and go to sleep . . .

But instead, she got up, very quietly, and turned on the light, studying her flushed face in the streaked mirror over the bureau. How bright her eyes were, she was pretty, she really was! She could just see her face and the tops of her shoulders, the mirror was so small and so high. Did he still think she was beautiful? As beautiful as Crystal? She knew that she could never be as lovely as Crystal, Crystal with her curly hair and her dimples, but could he really think that she was?

She thought of his twinkling blue eyes, his smooth, fair hair brushed cleanly . . . k, like the men in the collar ads . . . his broad shoulders, and his firm, well kept hands . . . Good looking. And nice. Besides, he liked her . . . and he only saw Crystal once in a while . . .

She put some frockie cream on her nose, climbed back into bed, and slept.

CHAPTER 12.

The strong smell of boiling coffee penetrated Daphne's consciousness. It was m-rning, old Mrs. Hinkle in the kitchen was preparing her favorite brew. Daphne knew that the old lady slept in the kitchen, on the hard, lumpy couch between the stove and the table. "Aber, sometimes I lay down here, I guess it's good enough for me," she would mumble in her hoarse, guttural old voice if any of the roomers found her there. But they all knew that the other rooms were always rented.

Miss Viola, her daughter, the "Madame Hinkle" of the dressmaking sten in the window slept on the green plush couch in the parlor, and Daphne herself had what had once been the dining room, separated from Miss Viola's parlor by perpetually locked and closed folding doors of dark, varnished wood.

Mrs. Hinkle made coffee twice a day, before breakfast, and before dinner, in a tall blue agate pot with a tin cover. The rest of the day it simmered on the back of the stove, sending out its stale, acid odor to mingle with the dampness of the halls, the old, musty smell of unalred beds, yellow soap, boiled dinner, and the sweet-sour messes that usually shared the place of honor on the back of the stove.

With the privilege of the kitchen," Miss Viola said when Daphne rented the room, but Daphne had never made use of the privilege. It was bad enough to hurry through it in the mornings on her way to the splashy, dark little bathroom which an absent minded architect had apparently forgotten until the house was finished, and then nonchalantly placed in a vacant spot on the back porch.

There was always someone in the kitchen. Sometimes it was one of the married women from upstairs, stirring something over the fire, or washing out a little something in one of the laundry tubs on the back porch. Or Flora McCordle, the tall, blond girl, who had the he'll bedroom upstairs, and was also out of work. She had been disposed to be friendly but her loud, raucous laugh, and her easy ways with the married women's husbands, had frightened Daphne away.

WAR DEPARTMENT LAUDS "WINGS"

The greatest compliment ever given to a motion picture company by the war department has been bestowed upon Paramount for its war epic of the air, "WINGS," which opened a return engagement of one week at the Ceramic theater today.

A memorial to cost $100,000 and dedicated to the famous Second division will be erected in Washington because of their accuracy, still pictures from the photoplay are to be used as models in constructing the huge memorial.

Paramount constructed an exact duplicate of a sector of St. Mihiel in order to obtain the spectacular battle shots which climax "WINGS" and these so impressed war department officials that they asked permission of Jesse L. Lasky to model from the stills. "Wings" was directed by William Wellman, who was a flyer in the famous Lafayette Escadrille. John Monk Saunders, an instructor in aviation during the war, wrote the story. The cast includes Clara Bow, Charles (Buddy) Rogers, Richard Arlen, Jobyna Ralston, Gary Cooper, Arlette Marchal, H. B. Walthall, Hedda Hopper, Claire McDowell, El Brendel and Guibout Smith.

THRILLING DRAMA AT AMERICAN

Love under the tropic moon—grim shadows of the money-hungry white man—fantastic scenery; far flung,

BILLY SUNDAY HITTING TARGET

Envy is one of the greatest robbers in the world.

Sin, cherished, cancels all chances of a blessing from God.

It is not so much what you do as what you do not do that makes for sin.

The curse of Christianity is the sin of omission.

Separate yourself from the sin which is in your life.

God is not bankrupt yet I wonder that he puts up with the sins of America.

We are God's messengers and speak God's message and we have no right to do less.

Many, envious, want a Cadillac when they can get along with a Tin Lizzie or a Chevy.

God can make us look like a plugged counterfeit nickel.

If you believe in the Lord Jesus Christ you are saved now and can have the assurance of the fact.

To be a Christian one should not continue going around with a Godless bunch of folks.

Your sins keep God from fulfilling his promise, yet He has never left America go to bed hungry.

God is jealous and demands our whole affection. You can not go to prayer meeting one night and the bridge built party the following one and remain loyal to Him.

When love comes to a young man he will drill tunnel to reach the object of his affections.

Napoleon wrote his mother that with Homer in his pocket and a sword at his side he would fight his way through the world and he did. The road to anywhere is filled with pitfalls.

Grant was tanning hides at 35 while D. L. Moody was selling shoes at 25.

Aim high for it will not hurt a run any more to shoot a feather from an eagle than to hit a polecat.

Josh Billings said: "Know as much as you can without blowing the packing from the cylinder head."

Your old dad's scrawling signature on a check will draw more money from the bank than 14 typewriters used to sign your own.

Don't turn out for the first shade tree because the road appears hot just on ahead.

We miss a cow when she ceases gorgeous, but terrible—a thrilling drama of a dying race.

These factors all contribute to make W. S. Van Dyke's production, "White Shadows in the South Seas," which comes to the American theater today, a picture that is human, natural and different. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production soars to a new high level of popular interest.

Van Dyke has taken an idea; namely that the white men, wherever they find their way around the world, bring with them a shadow which when thrown over primitive races results in disease, destruction and death for the simple savage. On this new but simple theme he has woven a screen drama, violent and terrible but tragically beautiful.

The story opens with Monte Blue as Dr. Lloyd, a beachcomber physician, salvaging the lives of native pearl divers on a South Sea island. These natives, urged on by the white man's cupidity, dive to great depths in search of the elusive mussels, and from the tremendous pressure, Lloyd finds in his own maimed heart a great pity for these simple islanders.

This pity earns him the enmity of the renegade whites on the island and he is shanghaied aboard a pest-ship. After all others except himself have died, the ship is wrecked on a lonely uncharted atoll and Lloyd is cast ashore.

After many hardships he finds a native village which has never seen a white man and the natives take him to their heart. It is his love for little Fawaya, the daughter of the chief, and her determination to keep her and her people away from the contaminating influence of his fellow whites which make the picture a mighty epic of the hearts of men as well as of the beauties of tropical nature.

to give milk; we do not keep her for a companion.

The blood of a bull in the pasture field yesterday is today turned into buttons.

He tackled a thing he could not do and did it is the gist of a line from one of Edgar Guest's poems.

How unequally has God seemingly divided his gifts to men.

If you knew what was in the hearts of some men with apparently more than you you would be satisfied with what you have.

The early church was organized in prayer and depended upon it for all its activities.

The violin out of tune is no good; neither is a man who is not in communion with his heavenly Father.

Tennyson was right when he said that more things were done by prayer than could be estimated.

Queen Victoria set up a fast day during the Crimean War and the tide then turned to the English forces.

The prayer of the religious remnant in America and the world gives them the hope and the standing they enjoy.

When you reject God He rejects you but any vile sinner can be instantly saved once he believes and repents.

You are in this world because of a natural birth as am I, and you can not get into the kingdom of God without being born spiritually.

You cannot be a child of God until you have accepted God in the way he says you must do so.

The obelisk brought to New York is the same one under which Moses played as boy thousands of years ago in Egypt.

What you will do about Jesus will decide what others will do about HIM.

The politicians railroaded Jesus to doom under the cover of darkness.

Will you choose Christ or the devil in the final answer of the question: "What will you do with Jesus?"

There are many yet in these days who crucify Christ by their indifference and sinful lives.

Every impure girl envies the pure one when the two come in contact.

This revival is a good time in which to get acquainted with your neighbor. You might like him.

Many a mother gets a new dress when her husband hits the sawdust trail.

Sin is a rattle snake, not the cream puff some preachers and writers would make you believe.

Many victims of sin would not be in their everlasting sleep if ministers had spoken truth to them from their pulpits.

The church is not a place of amusement and entertainment.

Finney used to explain what other preachers preached.

Water is as old-fashioned as time, yet you would not want to change it would you? Birth and death are old-fashioned and will never be changed.

Morality would not survive the passing of Christianity.

When a man departs from the law he becomes a criminal; when he departs from God he becomes a sinner.

The supreme need of America is to return to a religion that includes the repentance of sinners.

It is as much a calamity to put new born souls into some churches as it would be to place a babe to the breast of an Egyptian mummy for nutriment.

God never planned to save the world by preaching of angels but by the preaching of men.

If we are fools enough to serve the devil we will go to Hell with him.

The mother with sin in her will destroy her daughter.

Because of the sin of Adam and Eve you have some one in the grave yard.

Some fool preachers would have sinners come back by education and culture when God says they must do so by a new spiritual birth.

People shocked by plain speech, should be disinfected with lysol, plain preaching shocks none living right.

If we shut the doors of lodges and society to moral lepers there would be some empty places.

If you break your neck you do not go to a garage for repairs; if you need spiritual aid you should go to a preacher.

You can be religious and play baseball and football except on Sundays.

God likes to laugh for he made the monkey, the donkey and some of you folks.

NORMAL RAINFALL
DURING OCTOBER

Rainfall was above normal during October, and as a result wheat made a favorable growth, according to a report just issued by U. S. Co-operative Observer Lawrence H. Copeland of Millport. Most wheat fields promise a good start for the winter months.
Corn husking is well advanced.
Columbiana county pastures are short, and live stock is on nearly fall feed.

The mean maximum temperature for October was 55.5 and the mean minimum 42.8, with the mean temperature at 54.1. A minimum temperature of 83 degrees was registered
Oct. 11-12 and a minimum of 23 was recorded Oct. 30.

Precipitation for October was 2.76 inches and the greatest in any 24 hours was 1.45 inches on Oct. 15.
There was a trace of snowfall during the month.
The month had eight clear days, 15 were partly cloudy while seven were cloudy. A thunderstorm occurred on Oct. 18.

Verdict for $950 Returned.

A jury in common pleas court has returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiffs for $950 in an action filed
March 22, 1926 by Emily D. Howell and Ethel H. Gilbert against Martin V. Howell. This petition sought the forfeiture of a life estate.

Appeal Case Settled.

The appeal case of Clyde Wells against C. M. Dainton, which grew out of an attachment proceeding in a lower court and was then carried to common pleas bench, has been settled at the cost of the defendant.

Ritzy Rosalie

Rosalie and Penelope are all set for a gay evening. For who could fail to be gay in a fan-shaped evening ruff of tulle ending in long streamers finished with tassels? Or a chiffon triangle with ascitillating pattern? Penelope is not wearing her cigarette holder-ring properly, so it can be viewed fully. The smoke, of course, goes through the hollow sides of the ring section. It is in jade, black and silver.
